San Rafael To Act As Own Bias Unit

Probe Of Police Prompts Stance

By NELS JOHNSON

The San Rafael City Council, stung by recent criticism of the city police department, last night said it acts as a human rights commission to hear complaints stemming from employee conduct. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 8.)

The council said that while it has always acted as a human rights agency, a formal announcement of the fact was needed to clarify policy in light of probes of San Rafael police by the Marin County Human Rights Commission.

At issue are recent reviews by the county agency of a police raid on a teen-age beer party and police questioning of a 12-year-old boy in connection with the unsolved slaying of Lucy Ann Gilbride.

The commission, which the city claims has no jurisdiction within city limits, heard complaints that police officers used unnecessary force to break up the party, and improperly grilled the youth without parental knowledge.

Councilmen last night bristled at the county's handling of the matter, saying the council has always provided a forum for such complaints.

"I think we do it right now without giving it a name," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

"I don't know that it's necessary in San Rafael to have a rights commission, but in light of (the police incidents) it's good to declare openly we act as a rights commission," said Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan. "The alternative is to force people if they do have complaints to go to the county rights commission which has no jurisdiction over us."

Councilmen appeared pleased with a policy adopted Thursday by the county rights commission of referring complaints against city police departments to the departments through the county criminal justice planning agency. Councilman John A. Miskimen called the new policy "excellent."

Ernest Gray, chairman of the county human rights commission, claimed the policy approved Thursday was merely a reaffirmation of longstanding practice. "We're not interested in keeping jurisdiction" if local agencies handle such problems, he said. City officials noted, however, that Gray's commission had not referred the two police matters to San Rafael officials.

Anise M. Turina of 4 Dias Way, who said she sparked the probe of the beer party last August after a report from her son who attended, told councilmen that "I tried to keep this thing very quiet, believe it or not."

She said press accounts of the beer bash were unfair to the partygoers, and said the council "blew up" the situation by directing the city police administration not to cooperate with the county probe. "You just can't keep things like this down," said Mrs. Turina, who is considering a bid for a San Rafael City Council seat next March.

Mrs. Turina was backed by several residents in urging councilmen to appoint a citizens committee to monitor human Hirohito Promises To Visit U.S.

TOKYO (UPI) — Emperor Hirohito today welcomed President Ford as the first U.S. chief of state to visit Japan and said in a toast it was "regrettable" the two countries fought in World War II.

Ford, dining at the ancient Imperial Palace in a ceremony telecast throughout Japan and in the United States, got a promise from Hirohito that the emperor would visit America next year.

Ford's first official day in Japan was mostly ceremony although he did visit with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka about issues ranging from the energy crisis and superpower arms negotiations to controversial charges that U.S. nuclear weapons have been taken into Japan.

The only discordant note came when Tokyo's left-wing mayor, Ryokichi Minobe, complained in a news conference that Ford had refused to discuss the nuclear weapons issue with him during an official courtesy call.

Heavy security precautions prevailed everywhere Ford went. But despite fears to the contrary, the President spent his first full day in the Land of the Rising Sun without seeing a single demonstrator.

A strike by 3.5 million transit and communications workers, triggered in part by Ford's visit, made life hard for 7.8 million commuters. But the walkout, which lasted from 12 to 15 hours, had no impact on Ford himself and police said there were no incidents.

Demonstrations in 1960 caused the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cancel a planned trip to Japan at the last minute, and there had been fears that leftist extremists and other demonstrators would mar the Ford visit. But the threatened mass demonstrations failed to materialize.

Ford's day started with a formal welcome from Hirohito at the Geihinkan, Japan's official guest house, where the President is staying.

There, in a courtyard under a cloudless sky, the 38th President of the United States and Japan's 124th sovereign — each dressed in formal morning clothes — bowed and shook hands.

During a 10-minute private meeting in the palace, Hirohito introduced Ford to Empress Nagako, his 70-year-old wife of 50 years. No women were present at any of the formal ceremonies because Ford's wife Betty, recovering from cancer surgery, had been unable to accompany her husband.

In a burst of classic U.S. political handshaking, Ford stopped his limousine just outside the palace when he left and greeted a crowd of about 1,500 lining the curb. Then he drove on to the guest house for his meeting with Tanaka, who is fighting charges he amassed a large personal fortune while in public office.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Tanaka and Ford talked extensively about the energy crisis, an important topic to Japan because that nation must import 80 per cent of its oil.

He said Japanese officials expressed "sympathy" with the Ford administration's recent call for a 10 per cent import cutback by all oil consuming nations — an idea to which Japan gave a cool initial reaction — but pointed out Japan's special problems in view of its heavy dependence on oil for industrial purposes.

Other topics covered by Tanaka and Ford, he said, included the issues Ford intends to raise later this week in a mini-summit conference at Vladivostok and the charges brought by Japanese leftists that U.S. warships are illegally bearing nuclear arms into the country.

Black Commissioner Quits Marin Housing Authority

In a latter to Michael Wornum, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, Miller excoriated his fellow directors, charging that the board has perpetrated "dirty tricks" on black people in Marin.

The board "has been made into a selling tool to convince blacks that they should be content living in Marin City for nothing and stay out of the rest of the county," he wrote.

The authority board, the Marin Legal Aid Society and the county Human Rights Department "share the job of making this deal sound attractive to blacks and of assuring the rest of the county" that blacks will stay in Marin City, Miller said.

There are several ways that "blacks are being used to contain blacks in Marin City," according to the authority director.

ARTHUR MILLER JR.
Quits post

"Our black director (Wallace K. Shepherd) was illegally discharged by four out of 14 commissioners at the whim of one racist dilitant (sic). This was excused by pretending that it served the interest of the black community," Miller declared.

"In fact, it was done over the objection of all responsible black leadership in order to stop the director's countywide, open-housing program and to satisfy one man's petty hatred for him. The Redevelopment Agency suit to correct this will probably not even be pursued," Miller said.

Shepherd was executive director of both the housing authority and Marin County Redevelopment Agency until Aug. 13 when he was fired from the authority post by a 4-1 vote of the authority's 7-member board. He still retains the post of director of the redevelop-

FTC Orders Holiday Magic To Refund Money To Thousands

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission yesterday ruled that the Holiday Magic form of San Rafael illegally and deceptively used a pyramid selling scheme, and ordered the firm to make refunds to thousands of its victims.

The full commission affirmed a ruling issued in June 1973 by one of its examiners, which ordered refunds to investors dating back to October 1964. The FTC began its action against Holiday Magic in 1970, before the death of William Penn Patrick, the firm's founder.

(In San Rafael, two spokesmen for Holiday Magic both claimed the FTC announcement was "premature" and that top officials of U.S. Universal, the holding firm that governs Holiday Magic, are in Washington "negotiating" an agreement with the FTC. They said the firm would announce the results Thursday.)

FTC officials stuck by their guns that yesterday's ruling is final, according to United Press International, and estimated the amount to be refunded at "up to $100 million."

The FTC spokesmen also noted that Holiday Magic is under a federal court order issued Aprii 3, to refund some $250 million to almost 30,000 investors. That ruling ordered a restitution fund established with all of the firm's nonoperating assets and a percentage of its future gross income. The verdict resulted from a suit by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Spokesmen said the Federal Trade Commission will step into enforcement of the SEC case ruling also, if the firm violates the order.

(Holiday Magic spokesmen referred all questions on the financial arrangements under the SEC verdict to the firm's attorney, Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. His office said he will be out of town through tomorrow.

(Marie O. Patrick has been at the helm of U.S. Universal since shortly after her husband was killed in a Lake County plane crash in June 1973. That

Nixon Said Urged To Nail Mitchell For Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As the Watergate cover-up began to collapse in April, 1973, President Richard M. Nixon and his top aides discussed ways to make it look like Nixon personally "cracked" the case, according to a White House tape played im court today.

A tape of an April 14, 1973, meeting between Nixon and aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman — both of them now standing trial for the cover-up — showed when played in the cover-up trial that they were resigned to the growing public awareness of possible top-level involvement in Watergate and were trying to cut their losses.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman suggested during the meeting that Nixon himself move to "nail" the two top officials of his 1972 re-election campaign — former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Jeb Stuart Magruder.

Ehrlichman also relayed a suggestion from another Nixon aide, Charles W. Colson, that Nixon persuade Watergate mastermind G. Gordon Liddy to talk to the prosecutors. Liddy was serving a jail term at the time, vowing he would never disclose the details of the break-in.

"You would send, you'd send word to him and of course wanting him to make full disclosure or in some way you would be activist on this score," Ehrlichman told Nixon. "He (Colson) wants you to, to say afterward that you cracked the case."

Nixon and his aides later discussed the idea of having Magruder, who had perjured himself before the grand jury, tell the truth and seek immuni-

CRUSADE — The United Bay Area Crusade in Marin has reached the $129,942 mark toward its $225,000 goal in the county. In all five counties, it has raised $14,207,000 toward $21 million sought by the deadline next Thrusday.

Corte Madera Council Sends Open Space Bond Plan To Staff

A $1 million bond issue for next March and a shopping list of open space properties were presented last night to the Corte Madera Town Council. (Another Corte Madera Town Council story, page 12.)

The council referred the package to town staff and will consider final action on the matter Dec. 2.

A 30-member citizens committee which labored two months to assemble the package described the land it recommended the city seek and told how much it will cost taxpayers.

Committee cochairman Naomi Seward said the group decided that two categories, A and B, should be set up, with A consisting of those parcels of citywide interest which separate Corte Madera from its neighbors and B those properties of neighborhood significance.

A parcels cover the Northridge, Meadowsweet and Tiburon ridges, Hidden Valley and the Triangular Marsh north of Paradise Drive.

Parcels in the B category include land further down Tiburon Ridge toward the bay, property west of All Faiths Church in East Corte Madera and the headwaters of San Clemente Creek.

Councilmen made it clear the bond issue, if passed, will be flexible enough to allow purchase of land not mentioned specifically.

If the bonds are approved and the entire $1 million is spent, they will cost taxpayers about 21.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for 20 years, Mrs. Seward said.

This translates to about $14.50 per year to the owner of a $34,000 home, $21.50 on a $47,000 home and $31.75 on a $66,000 home, said Mrs. Seward.

Parcels in the A category stand a good chance of winning matching funds from the county, Mrs. Seward said.

The council must act before Dec. 4 if the bond issue is to be put before voters in March, she said.

Rocky's Confirmation Forecast By Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Judiciary chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J. said today that the lengthy confirmation process for vice presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller may be completed by Christmas.

Earlier, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he would like to see a vote by the full Senate on the nomination by next Wednesday.

Rodino said the hearings before his committee would last at least eight days and that evening sessions would be held in hopes of completing confirmation by Christmas.

Rockefeller will be the first witness when the hearings open Thursday. Next week the hearings will continue through Wednesday when Congress recesses for Thanksgiving and they will resume Dec. 5th.

At a brief committee meeting today the Judiciary members agreed to allow live television coverage of the hearings but the three commercial networks have indicated they do not plan coverage.

SLAIN GUERRILLA — A resident of the Israeli border town of Beit Shean dragged the body of an Arab guerrilla to an area where it and three others were burned by angry Israelis after the four Arabs were killed today in a grenade-throwing attack on a small apartment house.

Israelis Slay Four Arab Guerrillas

BEIT SHEAN, Israel (UPI) — Four Arab guerrillas hurling hand grenades as they attacked burst into a three-story concrete apartment house in this northern Israeli border town early today. They were shot to death by Israeli commandos who stormed the building, Israeli officials said.

The Israeli command said four Israelis, three men and a woman, were killed by the guerrillas. Another 22 persons, mostly children, were treated at the hospital in nearby Afula for injuries suffered when they leaped from the windows of the three-story building.

Some children escaped when their parents wrapped them in bed sheets and lowered them to safety with clothesline.

Witnesses said that when the shooting was over, five or six angry men ran into the building and threw the guerrillas' corpses, one of them headless, out the window. They ignited the bodies with cans of gasoline before the police could disperse the mob and put out the blaze with a fire hose.

Defense Minister Shimon Peres called the commando action "fast, daring and to the point." But the militant Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said the guerrillas blew themselves up with grenades before they could be captured and that they took "many" Israelis with them.

Witnesses said the guerrillas entered the town at about 4 a.m., apparently from Jordan, and were soon spotted. They opened fire with light weapons and ran into the house on Hagiborim Street, less than five miles from the river border with Jordan.

As tenants fled the building the guerrillas shot the lock off the door and entered the apartment of Yehuda Bebas. Neighbors said Bebas jumped out another window with two of his children when the guerrillas set off their first explosions. Mrs. Bebas was killed.

Police and green-bereted border patrolmen ringed the building and at 7:55 a.m. charged up the stairs and down the corridor. They smashed in the door of the Bebas apartment and shot the guerrillas at close quarters, the sources said.

An army spokesman said PDFLP leaflets found in the guerrilla knapsacks called for the release of 20 Arab guerrilla suspects held in Israeli jails, including Greek Catholic Archbishop Hilarion Capucci of East Jerusalem, accused of smuggling weapons to Arabs in the occupied West Bank.

In Beirut, an official of the Palestine Liberation Organization said the Arab attack was another phase in the Palestinian revolution.

Ahmed Abdel Rahman, editor of the PLO magazine Al Thawra, said he did not think guerrilla raids harmed political negotiations for peace.

"The Viet Cong continued their struggle in the field while they were talking peace in Paris," he said. "We are doing the same thing."

The PLO acts as an umbrella for the main guerrilla groups including the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which claimed responsibility for the attack.

The Front said in Damascus that the building housed "a number of enemy intelligence officers and their families."

The Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a radical offshoot of the PLO, issued a communique later in Damascus saying the four guerrillas set off explosives which led to destruction of the building, and death of the four "martyrs and a large number of the enemy."

In East Jerusalem, high school girls threw rocks at police in the second day of street protests there against Israeli rule. About 30 girls were arrested, after being sprayed by green water from a high-pressure water cannon.

In Bethlehem, on Jerusalem's southern boundary, 49 students were rounded up by army troops before they could organize a strike of two local high schools. Demonstrations there and in other West bank villages marked the seventh straight day of anti-Israeli disturbances.

Maj. Gen. Rafael Eytan, Israel's northern front commander, said no negotiations were held with the guerrillas inside the building even though they were equipped with a loudspeaker.

"They did not communicate with the outside world," he told newsmen. "Our operation was based on the principle that there can be no exchange with terrorists, only to wipe them out."

Sirens cut the early morning darkness and residents raced to concrete bunkers and shelters located on every street in the northern Israeli town.

"People began running out down the streets when the first round of shots came," Michael Saguy said. "I saw fathers stringing their children down the laundry line wrapped in sheets."

Saguy, a tenant in the besieged building, said one small boy wailed over and over "my legs are broken, my legs are broken."

Israeli troops ringed the building and exchanged fire with the commandos for three hours before launching an assault at 8 a.m.

Moments later, the national radio said, "security forces have succeeded in wiping out the terrorist ring and all four have been killed."

Women of the town gathered outside the apartment building and wailed loudly in grief. Fire trucks had to spray the crowd with water hoses to clear a passage for the wounded.

Beit Shean, 55 miles north of Jerusalem, is inhabited mostly by Jewish immigrants from Arab countries. It was often shelled before the 1967 Middle East War, but has been quiet since then.

The attack was the first Arab takeover of an Israeli building since June 24, when commandos entered the costal town of Nahariya, killing four Israelis before dying at the hands of Israeli troops.

Beit Shean is south of Quiryat Shemona, where guerrillas killed 18 Israelis and wounded 16 April 11. To the west, guerrillas killed 30 and wounded 88 during the takeover of a schoolhouse in Ma'alot May 15.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Kennedy Ends Arab Talks

CARIO (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy today ended three days of talks with Arab and Israeli leaders on the chances for peace in the Middle East.

Kennedy

The Massachusetts Democrat flew to Portugal this morning for discussions with President Francisco Da Costa Gomes.

Kennedy met for two hours last night with President Anwar Sadat at the Egyptian leader's Nile Delta residence 20 miles north of Cairo.

Blame Americans

ATHENS (UPI) — The newly legalized Greek Communist party today blamed "American imperialism" for its dismal showing in Greece's first free elections in a decade.

Communist leaders also said the left did not have enough time to organize for the elections and leftists were split by the newly formed Panhellenic Socialist Movement which campaigned on an anti-American ticket.

The PASOK was led by former University of California economics Prof. Andreas Papandreous, son of former Premier George Papandreou.

Ships In Suez

CAIRO (UPI) — Four ships, the first commercial vessels allowed through the Suez Canal in seven years, lay at anchor today near Ismailia, awaiting removal of the last obstacle between them and Suez City, a U.S. naval source said.

The freighter Aswan Star and the passenger ships Syria, El Sudan and Misr left the northern Mediterranean canal city of Port Said Saturday and have been in Ismailia since Sunday.

The navy source said the ships could proceed to Suez City on the Red Sea "as soon as we've cleared the concrete caisson at kilometer 87." They would then become the first commercial ships through the 103-mile waterway since the June, 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Risky Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pioneer 11, the United States' second Jupiter probe, will take a fast, close, and risky look at the giant planet in two weeks, but space officials think it will survive and fly on to explore Saturn in 1979.

Radiation damage is the biggest worry because the craft's path is expected to take it through radiation levels six to 10 times more intense than those that almost knocked out Pioneer 10 when it photographed Jupiter a year ago.

Keane Sentenced

CHICAGO (UPI) — Alderman Thomas Keane, Mayor Richard J. Daley's right-hand man and generally regarded as the No. 2 political power in the city, has been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $27,000 for conspiracy and mail fraud.

The charges against Keane stem from secret land deals involving Keane and the city.

Keane, who has served 29 years in the Chicago City Council and was considered the most powerful politician in Chicago next to Daley, was convicted by a federal court jury last month.

Urge Sugar Cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has asked Americans to cut their normal sugar intake in half as a means of combating rising sugar prices.

Ford yesterday increased the import quota — the maximum amount of sugar that can be legally imported into the United States — to 7 million short tons in 1975. The quota this year was 6.7 million tons.

Coal Pact Stumbles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the nationwide coal strike a week old, the bargaining council of the United Mine Workers today resumes deliberations on whether to submit a tentative contract to rank-and-file members for ratification.

The contract review, which has gone slower than anticipated, was unexpectedly delayed three days after sessions were suspended in memory of a UMW official killed Friday.

French Strike

PARIS (UPI) — Labor unions demanding higher wages and job security called a 24-hour nationwide strike today, forcing the French to struggle with reduced train service, electric failures and shuttered shops.

Transport officials in Paris said 70 per cent of the subways, 50 per cent of the buses and virtually all suburban and long distance trains were running.

One Western diplomat toured Paris and said, "The strike is a moderate failure."

Domestic Bugging Rift Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe and FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley are at odds over whether the late J. Edgar Hoover's campaign of "dirty tricks" against domestic groups should be revived if violence similar to the 1960s occurs again.

Saxbe is against such operations and Kelley would favor them.

Saxbe released a report detailing the late FBI director's 15-year counterintelligence program against radical and political groups yesterday. He said he would not condone a revival of the program even if violence of the 1960s were to happen again.

The Justice Department report revealed that the campaign, code-named "Cointelpro," included not only standard criminal investigations but some illegal and unconstitutional disruptions by infiltration, spreading of false information and other tactics intended to neutralize the New Left, black extremists, white hate groups and political organizations.

Kelley, who appeared at a joint news conference with Saxbe, said he would favor reviving Hoover's program if the bombing, rioting, and other revolutionary activities of the 1960s ever occurred again.

"For the FBI to have done less under the circumstances (the bombings, riots, and deaths of the 1960's era) would have been an abdication of its responsibilities to the American people," Kelley said in a statement issued later.

Conditions At Nursing Homes Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nursing home safety inspections are "a national farce" despite constant government rhetoric heralding crackdowns and fund cutoffs, a Senate report said today.

The 161-page report also said an alarming number of the one million elderly patients in 23,000 nursing homes "have actually encountered abuse and physical danger, including unsanitary conditions, fire hazards, poor or unwholesome food, infections, adverse drug reactions, overtranquilization and frequent medication errors."

The study is the first of an unusual series of reports on the nation's fast-growing nursing home industry conducted by the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

The committee declared that government has failed the elderly in nursing homes. "This failure in public policy is not only intolerable but also costly," it said.

Nine backup reports that will be released, roughly at monthly intervals, conclude that cruelty, negligence, food poisoning and other abuses of patients persist even in the glare of publicity. "A majority of the nursing homes fail to meet standards of acceptability," the report said.

Alioto Is Pulling For Rockefeller

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco's mayor, a Democrat, has telegraphed a vote of confidence to Nelson Rockefeller, a Republican.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who also is president of the National Conference of Mayors, messaged Rockefeller yesterday that he hoped the Republican would be confirmed swiftly as vice president.

"This is one Democratic mayor who much admires the candor and the forthrightness with which you have handled yourself during the hearings," Alioto telegraphed.

Gould Sued For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor Elliott Gould, 38, was sued yesterday for a divorce by his wife of 11 months, Jennifer Bogart, 24.

Gould, former husband of Barbra Streisand, had two children by Miss Bogart, daughter of director Paul Bogart, before they were married last December.

NAPOLEON LECHOCO

Ambassador Is Freed Unharmed By Gunman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Filipino gunman held his country's ambassador and another man hostage in their embassy for more than 10 hours before releasing them unharmed early today in return for flying his 15-year-old son from Manila to the United States.

Napoleon Lechoco, a Philippine citizen desperate to bring the last of his seven children to this country, seized ambassador Eduardo Z. Romualdez, 64, and another man yesterday afternoon.

He held them in the ambassador's office until he was assured by President Ferdinand Marcos that his son would be put on a 5 a.m. flight in Manila today.

Philippine Airline sources said the plane was due to land in San Francisco this evening.

The FBI arrested Lechoro, a law clerk active in civic affairs in Maryland, and said federal charges were being prepared against him, although the Philippine government said it would not prosecute.

An arraignment was scheduled today at the U.S. District Courthouse.

In Manila, the government described Lechoco as a former presidential aide who fled the country 16 years ago to evade a fraud charge.

An official government information sheet said Lechoco was charged in a Manila court in 1958 with swindling the government of funds intended to house foreign students attending an international youth conference in the Philippines.

According to the information sheet, Lechoco left the country in 1958 to evade the court subpoena and an accounting of the funds.

It did not say what duties Lechoco performed as a presidential aide.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad told newsmen in Manila that Napoleon Lechoco Jr.'s departure today was merely speeded up and was not in exchange for the release of his father's hostages.

Tatad said Lechoco Jr. had applied for an exit visa to join his family but his departure was held up for "routine checks." He described the youth as "pleasant, handsome and cool." Tatad said a Filipino military officer was accompanying Lechoco.

J.V. Cruz, a spokesman for a group of Philippine officials who were sent to Washington from New York yesterday to handle the negotiations, said that upon his release, Ambassador Romualdezo called his cousin, Imelda Marcos, Marcos' wife, who was in New York on a visit. He also said a call was put through to President Marcos.

"Nobody was injured," Cruz said. "We're very happy, of course, that this has turned out well. No lives were lost and nobody was injured.

The other hostage, Mario Lagdameo, was taken to a nearby hospital for observation but Cruz said he was not injured. Lagdameo, an economist, is the nephew of former Philippine ambassador Ernesto Lagdameo.

Governors Turn Eyes To Economy

HILTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — Democratic governors turned their attention to the nation's sick economy today after assuring labor that they oppose the use of quotas to cure their party of its internal ailments.

Meeting with three AFL-CIO representatives and party chairman Robert S. Strauss, leaders of the 36-member Democratic Governors Conference stood firm on their position that "affirmative action" rules already approved for selection of 1976 national convention delegates should be written into the permanent charter to be adopted at the party's "mini-convention" in Kansas City next month.

But the governors emphasized to the labor group that rushed here from Washington after the governors made their unanimous move yesterday that they did not favor a return to the quota system as a means of assuring women, blacks and other minorities a stronger voice in party affairs.

Jacob Clayman, speaking for the AFL-CIO group, expressed satisfaction with the governors' explanation, but said labor still was concerned about the possibility of quotas and would move at Kansas City to get stronger restrictions against them written into the charter.

However, Clayman said he did not think labor would "rip asunder the party" if its position did not prevail.

Strauss told reporters he expected the governors' action would help bring peace to the Democratic party and get it started toward winning the presidency in 1976.

The governors, meeting since Sunday at this seaside resort, have made it clear that they intend to use their influence to encourage Congress to move firmly and swiftly against inflation and recession.

Manson Escape Letters Found

VACAVILLE (UPI) — Convicted mass murderer Charles Manson was transferred from the medical facility here to maximum security at Folsom Prison last month after authorities discovered an escape plot involving guns and grenades.

Jess Marquez, program administrator of the unit in which Manson was held at the medical prison, said yesterday the plot was uncovered when authorities found five letters from Manson hidden in another inmate's cell Sept. 19.

Two letters were addressed to the inmate, who was not identified, and the others were apparently to be smuggled out of the prison to two one-time members of the Manson "family," Lynette Fromme and Sanda Good.

The letters to the inmate "told him to contact these two girls regarding a possible escape attempt," Marquez said.

Hirohito Entertains Ford At Sumptuous State Feast

Wearing white tie and tails, Ford was the guest of honor at the elaborate banquet hosted by the 73-year-old emperor. Some 120 other guests were invited.

The banquet was held in the "Kinden Homeiden" or Golden Hall banquet room, decorated with glittering chandeliers and a gigantic woven mural. The Imperial Palace is a 234-acre compound in central Tokyo surrounded by a moat.

The dinner, served by about 16 butlers in dark suits, included consomme, fish (managatsuo) in white wine, mousse de foie gras, filet of beef a la Renaissance, green salad and ice cream parfaits. The wines served were Meursault Charvet 1970 followed by Chateau Lafite Rothschild 1964 and Moet et Chandon Dom Perignon Brut 1964.

Before the meal was served, the Emperor stood up and made a toast in which he referred to the "unfortunate period" which interrupted 120 years of friendly relations between the United States and Japan.

Ford listened solemnly to this reference to World War II and made a return toast, emphasizing the importance of friendship between the two nations.

The President sat on Hirohito's right at a long, rectangular table decorated with silver trays of chrysanthemums. Empress Nagako, who sat on Ford's right, wore a lavender kimono.

Two or three of the male guests wore the traditional Japanese formal dress called hakama haori.

ROCKY

plans to send Rockefeller's nomination to the full Senate before the end of this week, even though some members are still not satisfied with his explanation of $2.5 million in gifts and loans to public officials.

Chairman Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said he expected the committee to unanimously approve Rockefeller. "I expect to vote for the nomination," Cannon said.

Mansfield said he would like to schedule a vote on the nomination by next Wednesday, the day after the committee is expected to send its formal report on Rockefeller to the Senate.

"If there's any opportunity I would like to schedule it for Wednesday," he told reporters.

But Mansfield conceded that a member of the Senate could put a temporary "hold" on the nomination and the outlook at present is for the nomination to sit in the Senate until after the Thanksgiving holiday.

The Senate committee completed hearings on Rockefeller yesterday by hearing from a number of recipients of Rockefeller gifts and loans, including Dr. William Ronan, who denied that the $625,000 he received from Rockefeller made him a "psychological servant" to the former governor's interests.

Ronan, chairman of the New York-New Jersey Port Authority, told the committee that the $115,000 in cash g fts and $510,000 in loans — which Rockefeller forgave — were given as an "expression of his generosity" with no strings attached.

Edward J. Logue, the state's chief urban development official, and James Gaynor, who headed the state's housing agency when Rockefeller was governor, both testified that Rockefeller lent them money to enable them to assume their posts.

Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said he was troubled by the Rockefeller gifts because some people could "reasonably infer" that they "came very near the line" to violating New York State laws prohibiting gifts to public officials to influence their public actions.

"While, as I say, an inference may properly be drawn in these various cases, without more evidence, the benefit of any doubt ought to be given to the person involved — in this case, the nominee," Byrd concluded. He said he would vote to support the Rockefeller nomination.

Of the other members, only Sen. James E. Allen D-Ala., said he was "undecided" but that if he differed with Rockefeller it was only on his "big government, big spending, big taxes" philosophy.

President Late To A Meeting

TOKYO (UPI) — President Ford was 17 minutes late to his meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka today, but Tanaka laughed it off with a joke.

"After all, we have waited more than 100 years since Japan and America established diplomatic relations for an American president to visit us," Tanaka said when Ford apologized. "We don't mind such a minor delay as this."

Ford was held up when an earlier meeting with Emperor Hirohito at the Imperial Palace fell behind schedule.

Ford Attended St. Mary's

MORAGA (UPI) — St. Mary's College has discovered that President Ford once attended this San Francisco Bay Area campus in his collegiate career.

During World War II, Ford, then a 30-year-old Navy lieutenant, was assigned to the St. Mary's pre-flight school, operated on the campus from 1942 to 1946. Ford was one of 18,000 aviation cadets.

The weekly base newspaper, "The Eaglet," only mentioned him once —as one of 10 officers being transferred to other duty in April, 1945.

According to yesterday's disclosure, Ford came to the school in December, 1944, after serving on the USS Monterey in the Gilbert and Marshall islands.

Jewelry, Cameras Reported Stolen

Jewelry and cameras valued between $3,500 and $4,000 were taken between 10:30 a.m. and 3:45 p.m yesterday from her home, Geraldine A. Leydecker, 47, of 311 Mission Avenue, San Rafael reported to police.

Entry was gained by removing the rear window screen to the house, according to police reports.

BART Is Suing Big Contractors

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Bay Area Rapid Transit district filed a $237.8 million damage suit against major contractors yesterday for alleged improper performance of obligations and failure to meet specifications.

Defendants were Parsons Brinckerhoff-Tudor-Bechtel, the engineering combine for the 71-mile system; Westinghouse Electric Co.; Rohr Industries, Inc.; the Bulova Watch Co., ten insurance companies and 100 John Does.

The suit, listing 52 separate causes of action, generally charged those named with poor contract performance which caused extensive delays in the opening of the space-age system. The delays caused a susbstantial loss of revenue, the suit said.

MILLER

ment agency and the backing of its board which initiated a lawsuit to fight the dismissal. The suit is still pending in the courts.

Miller did not identify the "racist dilitant" or the man whose "petty hatred" sparked Shepherd's dismissal.

He also complained to Wornum that:

1. "A pitiful, illiterate, small-time gambler (also unidentified), recently charged with welfare fraud, has been dredged up to misrepresent blacks on the (authority) board over the objections of black leaders. Even now, he is promoted and shown off as what black people are like."

2. "A black Maoist revolutionary (not identified), convicted of arson in the San Francisco State bombings, is secretly paid by a group of rich Marin County residents and spreads fear of blacks in the county with broad encouragement.

3. "Political lawsuits have been imported to stop any progress in housing and renewal that would allow the attention of blacks to wander from Marin City. (Also pending in the courts is a lawsuit brought against the authority by Marin Legal Aid and a number of Marin City residents. The suit is an attempt to have low-cost housing included in two redevelopment projects planned for the Southern Marin community.

4. "Biased news coverage cleverly masks these events in an aura of benevolent paternalism, hiding their real nature.

"I wonder if this can all be happening by chance?" Miller wrote. "Who, if anyone, would want to be responsible for it? I am saddened by this oppression, but I am not discouraged about my future or the future of black people in Marin County," he told Wornum.

Miller has been under fire recently from his fellow board members for not attending board meetings. Of the 16 sessions since July 1, he has attended only seven.

In the letter, Miller explained that he has "abstained attendance at meetings" because he could not affect the board's conduct "and cannot accept it."

Miller, who works for a San Francisco funeral director and owns a home in Marin City, has been a member of the authority board since 1968.

Mormon Temple Is Dedicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Washington Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints was dedicated today with an expression of hope "that the Lord is pleased and that He will enter here and make this His abode."

So spoke President Spencer W. Kimball, world leader of the 3.3 million Mormons at the first of 10 dedicatory ceremonies continuing through Friday.

Each of the services will attract approximately 4,300 faithful church members, coming from the United States east of the Mississippi River and in eastern Canada.

Udall May Stay 'Unannounced'

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., said yesterday that although he was indeed an aspirant for the 1976 nomination, he may dispense with the traditional rites of issuing a formal announcement.

He said at a news conference yesterday: "One of the rituals is that at some magic point you gather your family around you, even the dog . . . and announce that you're going to save the country. Thirty minutes earlier you weren't a candidate."

TRIAL

ty by attempting to "nail" Mitchell.

The three also discussed the possibility of strong-arming Mitchell into going before the grand jury voluntarily to tell his story, thus drawing attention away from the White House.

Ehrlichman then concocted a poesible news story that could be written if things were handled right and the White House released evidence against Mitchell and Magruder. He concluded it by saying:

"Charges of cover-up by the White House were, uh, uh, materially dispelled by the diligent efforts of the President and his aides in, uh, moving on evidence which came to their hands in the closing days of the previous week."

Nixon answered, "I, I'd buy that."

The strategy expressed in this tape apparently stemmed from what Nixon described in an earlier taped meeting on March 27, 1973, when he told Haldeman and Ehrlichman to "cut our losses."

"We know that everybody in this thing did it, whatever they did, with the best of intention," Nixon said, according to the tape. "That's the sad thing about it ... the point is what's done is done. We do the very best we can, and cut our losses and so forth, the best you ever could do."

In it, the fear that Watergate bugging conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. might spill the whole story to authorities continued to emerge as a major White House concern.

"Hunt is at the grand jury today," Haldeman told Nixon on the tape. "We don't know how far he is going to go. The danger area for him is on the money, that he was given money. Uh, he's reported ... not to be as desperate today as he was yesterday, but to still be on the brink, or at least shaky."

The jury yesterday heard two White House tapes never before made public in which Nixon was considering a pardon for Hunt in January, 1973 even before the bugging defendant pleaded guilty. In late March, the tapes showed, Nixon was still consenting to a promise of a pardon if it would keep Hunt quiet.

Haldeman did most of the talking at the March 27 meeting, briefing Nixon in full on the Watergate background and the rapidly shifting situation.

He said that Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy director of Nixon's re-election campaign, sincerely believed — and apparently was prepared to tell the prosecutors — that the bugging had been undertaken by campaign operatives because of White House pressure.

Haldeman said that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, then Nixon's campaign manager and now a defendant, "signed off on it" — approved it — when White House aide Gordon Strachan told him that the President wanted it done.

"Was that — this is the bugging?" Nixon asked.

"The whole thing, including the bugging," Haldeman replied.

Nixon responded with a one-word vulgarity.

Nixon later suggested that Mitchell could simply testify that he had authorized a general intelligence-gathering operation and did not know it included a plan to bug Democratic headquarters.

"He authorized apples and they bought oranges," Haldeman replied. "Yeah."

"Mitchell, you see, is never, never going to go in and admit perjury," Nixon said. "I mean you can, uh, talk about immunity and all the rest, but he's never going to do that."

"They won't give him immunity anyway, I wouldn't think, unless they figure they could get you," Haldeman told Nixon. "He is as high up as they've been."

"He's the big enchilada," Ehrlichman added.

Brown Sets Up Interim Office

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A "transition" office for Gov.-elect Edmund Brown Jr. was set up yesterday in Los Angeles and another interim office probably will be opened next week in Sacramento.

Brown's temporary office to handle tasks relating to the changeover of administrations of California government is located in the new State Office Building at 107 South Broadway in Los Angeles.

Press Secretary David Jensen said a second "transition" office probably will be established in Sacramento next week to coordinate such things as a new state budget and mesh the actual transfer of power from Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration to Brown's.

On the Bulltail Ranch he raised dairy cattle at one time and then, more recently, beef cattle.

An avid sportsman and hunter, he also operated a shooting range on the ranch.

Through the years, Soares was active in many organizations in Marin County. He participated in Little League and in activities at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

FTC

August, she announced that Holiday Magic was changing its sales strategy to that of door-to-door calls and neighborhood sales parties.

(The original system of recruiting salesmen and distributors who invested for the right to recruit others, not only brought Holiday Magic under fire from state and federal agencies, but led to civil lawsuits for millions of dollars by investors who claimed they were bilked.)

"In essence, the Holiday Magic marketing plan is little more than an elaborate, modern-day version of the chain letter, with the capacity to part a slightly more sophisticated and more ambitious victim from his or her money," the FTC announcedment declared yesterday.

"The plan holds out the promise of profit for all based upon recruitment of other distributors, at both horizontal and vertical levels . . . and the potential for massive deception which occurred on an enormous scale in this case . . . often with the end result of financial disaster," the federal agency said.

rights complaints in San Rafael, if such an agency is to be formally created locally at all.

Tina Ferris of San Rafael said that councilmen might create "severe personnel problems" and conflict of interest situations if they were both employer and investigator of police.

She also asked councilmen if they were willing to grapple with other human rights questions, such as racial problems in city schools.

Councilmen agreed that while questions of racial and sexual discrimination are properly the business of the county human rights commission, the city is willing to listen to any problem a resident might have.

The council said citizens with problems should write to City Mgr. William J. Bielser. "We'll have a copy of the letter within several days," said Councilman Jack G. Nixon.

Grant For Nixon Police Is Ended

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — The federal government has cut off a five-year-old subsidy to pay for local police protection of former President Richard Nixon.

Although Nixon, as president, was directly protected by the Secret Service, the presidential presence in this Southern California beach resort town created subsidiary work that required more police officers.

A $200,000-a-year grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration compensated the city, allowing it to hire 10 extra officers and bring the police strength to about 40.

City officials said yesterday the federal government has rejected an application to continue the grant.

Standard Denies Monopoly Claim

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Standard Oil Co. of California has denied it participated in monopolizing the crude oil market in the state.

Standard issued a statement yesterday in answer to charges made by Controller-elect Kenneth Cory.

The company also denied it had violated any state or federal anti-trust laws and said it has never discriminated against independent producers in negotiating oil exchanges with other companies.

Cory named Standard and six other major oil companies in calling for anti-trust action for monopolizing the crude oil market.

Before becoming a barber, Schoen had served in the Marine Corps for 30 years, seeing duty during World War II in the South Pacific. He had also served in Nicaragua and China. He was a native of St. Paul, Minn.

The family asked contributions be made to the American Cancer Society.

She taught for two years for the Veterans Administration Rehabilitation office in New York. Mrs. Muir then became professor of special education at San Francisco State University, retiring last year.

AIRBORNE ART

Sawhill Amazed At Influence Of Oil Companies In Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John C. Sawhill, outgoing federal energy administrator, said today the oil industry exerts much more influence in Washington than he had imagined.

Recently forced to resign, Sawhill also told a Joint Economic Committee hearing that some big oilmen even admitted they had lobbied for his ouster. But he said he did not know if they influenced President Ford's decision to ask for his resignation.

Sawhill resigned after the administration's top energy advisory job went to Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton. But he will continue to head the agency until a successor is found.

"Do you believe the oil industry exercises undue influence in government?" Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., asked Sawhill during the hearing.

"It certainly does exercise a lot more influence than I realized when I came down here," Sawhill said. "Whether that constitutes undue influence or not, I cannot say. There is always a danger that one group or another can capture an agency."

Proxmire then asked how the oil lobby shows its influence.

"I was just surprised at the tremendous number of people here in Washington connected with the industry," Sawhill said.

One reason for his departure, Sawhill said, was his advocacy of an added gasoline tax to discourage demand.

Proxmire noted that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, a Ford Foundation energy report and a Project Independence report by the Federal Energy Administration all called for strong energy conservation measures.

"Still," he said, "the administration refuses to acknowledge the necessity of mandatory conservation measures. Why?"

"I don't believe I know the answer to that," Sawhill said with a grin. "And I'm not being facetious. The reason most often given is a concern for the impact of those measures on the economy."

Court Gives 3 Minor Opinions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today handed down its first opinions of the 1974-75 term in three minor cases dealing with business matters and federal-state jurisdiction in a criminal appeal.

Justice William H. Rehnquist was the only member to dissent from any of the actions.

The criminal issue arose from the conviction of Frank Xavier Francisco in the Circuit Court of Fairfax County, Va., a suburb of Washington, on charges of possessing heroin with intent to distribute it. The trial judge told the jury that intent could be based solely on the amount of the drug in Francisco's possession.

He drew an eight-year sentence and the Virginia Supreme Rourt affirmed the conviction.

Later, in another case, the state's highest court found the heroin law unconstitutional on the ground that its language did not alert "a person of ordinary intelligence" as to whether he was guilty of mere possession — a misdemeanor — or the felony of possession with intent to distribute.

Meantime Francisco had gone into U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., with claims that included the one addressed by the state court.

The district judge and the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals told Francisco to resubmit his challenge to state courts in view of the most recent ruling.

But the U.S. Supreme Court, in a brief unsigned opinion, rejected this view, citing one of its own decisions in a similar New York case. Normally, litigants must exhaust state remedies before coming to federal tribunals, but in cases like Francisco's, the policy would not make good sense, the opinion said.

In two business cases the Court:

Ruled unanimously in a New York City case that a trustee in bankruptcy must withhold federal and local income taxes on wages earned but not paid in the pay period preceding bankruptcy.

Ruled 8 to 1, with Rehnquist dissenting, that state courts must enforce contracts to buy cotton crops bound for interstate commerce without regard to state licensing requirements.

Antiques Sought For Dollar Estate

The San Rafael City Council last night called for public donation of antiques to furnish the Robert Dollar mansion. (Another San Rafael city council story, page 1.)

San Rafael voters on Nov. 5 voted 2-1 to buy and preserve the historic mansion and surrounding estate, and the city administration last night said one way to furnish the facility is through public generosity.

First piece of furniture to grace the structure is an oak captain's desk donated by the Save the Dollar Estate Committee, which boosted passage of a tax measure to buy the property.

City Mgr. William J. Bielser said residents willing to donate antiques may contact Parks and Recreation Director Andrew J. Snyder Jr. at city hall.

The call for antiques came as councilmen approved a host of recommendations proposed by the administration in connection with the estate.

The council agreed to exercise a $250,000 option to buy the estate from the Dollar Trust and approved a $175,000 loan from open space bond monies to fund purchase while awaiting tax revenues.

The council also said that Gerald Denman, resident caretaker of the mansion, will continue in the post; said that liquor may be consumed in the facility, and appropriated a $30,500 operating budget for groundsman salaries, utilities and supplies.

The council continued discussion of a schedule of fees for rental of the facility, and referred to the parks and recreation commission a proposal for a five-member cultural commission to oversee estate affairs and other municipal cultural activities.

Under a proposal by Councilman Jack G. Nixon, such a cultural commission might eventually be merged with the parks and recreation commission.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

BIDS — Rejected a lone $6,254 bid for a city tractor and called for new bids.

METAL — Referred back to the planning commission for design review a plan for a 14,000-square-foot metal structure at 35 Dodie Street envisioned for use as a tennis-teaching facility. Mayor C. Paul Bettini and Councilman Jack G. Nixon opposed the action, saying the council should merely continue consideration of the matter.

ORDINANCES — Routinely adopted ordinances calling for a 14 per cent boost in business license fees; a full-time elected city attorney, and a four-month moratorium on erection of overhanging and freestanding signs in the downtown redevelopment area.

THANKS — Issued a resolution of appreciation to Dr. Arnold Nutting, who has functioned as city physician in injury and liability cases, but continued consideration of a request by Nutting that he be officially designated as "city physician."

SALARIES — After closed session, reported that redevelopment agency officials previously receiving $25 per redevelopment meeting will be compensated according to this monthly schedule: executive director, $150; assistant director for public works, $125; assistant director for planning, $125; agency secretary, $75, and agency treasurer, $50. In addition, agency members boosted their own $25 per meeting salaries to $30, and boosted the monthly pay of assistant executive director Ralph Neal from $1,666 to a range up to $1,840.

ETHICS CODE — Approved an ethics code for top city employees, including a requirement that employees ". . . Strive to conduct all financial transactions and investments in a manner which negates any . . . potential or actual conflict of interest or the appearance of same."

HISTORIC — Referred to the planning commission a proposal by Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan that the city enact a historic preservation ordinance calling for preservation of structures deemed historically or architecturally significant.

INSURANCE — Told staff to calculate the cost of hiring a consultant to review the city insurance contract.

LIBRARY — Referred conceptual plans for remodeling the San Rafael Library to the city library board. Alternative proposals by architects Phillips and Finisy carry tabs ranging from $82,000 to $110,000. Only $50,000 has been budgeted for the job.

NEWS — Told staff to look into the cost of publishing a city newsletter for periodic distribution to residents.

RECREATION CENTER — Called for bids on the city recreation center after viewing final plans and specifications for the facility. The plans, though more detailed, are otherwise unchanged from plans previously approved.

LUCAS VALLEY — Said the city will set a public hearing to consider closing Old Lucas Valley Road, deemed a "sports car raceway" by some residents. No date was set for the hearing.

SAILBOATS — Referred to the parks and recreation commission an offer by Sailcraft Inc. of San Rafael to give the city two sailboats.

FIRE — Extended until Jan. 6 an agreement with the county to provide first-call fire response outside city limits, pending setting up a fire services area in adjacent unincorporated areas as approved by voters Nov. 5.

FIRE DEPARTMENT — Said an eligibility list for Fire Department battalion chief will not be extended for another year as requested by San Rafael Fireman's Association Local 2208. Instead, a new test will be given, with the eight firemen on the old list and seven new fire captains appointed last January eligible to take the test. Top three scorers on the exam will be considered for the battalion chief's post. Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci reported he was unable to fill the post using the old list.

MEETING — Canceled a meeting on redevelopment sketch plans set for tomorrow night, and rescheduled the meeting for 7:30 p.m. Monday in city hall.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Monday in city hall.

Cut Proposed In PG&E Request

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Public Utilities Commission staff yesterday recommended that a fuel adjustment application by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. be reduced from $56 million to $24.5 million.

The company had originally asked for a $28.5 million adjustment in electric rates to offset higher fuel costs, but amended the request upward on Nov. 6, saying additional quantities of fuel oil would be necessary because of delays in construction of a nuclear power plant at Diablo Canyon.

Differences between the staff recommendation and the company request are based on different estimates in natural gas available for electric generation and the appropriate method of determining the price of oil to be burned.

Madam Requests A Vote Recount

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Beverly Harrell, operator of a house of prostitution in central Nevada, yesterday requested a recount of the votes in her losing race for the State Assembly.

Ms. Harrell lost to Don Moody of Hawthorne by 2,673 votes to 2,553 in the three-county district.

$10 Billion Seen In Overcharges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Price-fixers overcharge consumers by a conservative estimate of $10 billion a year, and perhaps twice or three times that much, Federal Trade Commissioner Mayo J. Thompson contends.

He says rigged bidding in sales to local, state and federal agencies is so commonplace as to be "almost universal."

Thompson makes his charges in an eight-page memo he distributed among his four fellow commissioners last June. It drew no action, so he made it public at a hearing of Congress' Joint Economic Committee yesterday.

He argued for greater use of computers to examine tens of thousands of invoices for "suspicious looking pricing patterns" which would suggest companies had conspired to divide a market among themselves and to charge artificially high prices.

Tamalpais Board Rules Against Possibility Of A Tax Election

The financially strapped Tamalpais High School District board last night ruled out the possibility of trying to raise money by asking voters for a tax rate increase.

The board heeded the advice of Supt. Robert D. Torrey, who said "the track record for tax elections in school districts in the Bay Area is poor."

The board would have had to draw up a measure by Dec. 4 to get it on the March 4 ballot.

Board President Bette Wallace, up for reelection March 4, announced her intention to file papers, and announced that Elaine Brockbank, the other candidate for reelection on the five-member board, already had filed.

Tamalpais High School District Board Also:

P-TA — Agreed to appear before the Marin County Coordinating Council of the Parent-Teacher Association Nov. 25 at 8 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge to discuss it's financial plight.

STUDY — Heard a report from Dr. Thomas C. Lorch saying that efforts are being made to set up priorities for educational programs so the board will have some idea which ones to cut if it must do so because of its financial situation.

CONFERENCE — Learned that the Tamalpais High School orchestra will play at the Music Educators National Conference Convention in the San Francisco Hilton hotel Feb. 23 at 3:40 p.m.

BUSING — Was told by Business Mgr. Frank Cassou that the district is participating in the transportation study initiated by the county schools office, and that a more thorough report will be given at the next meeting.

BONEHEAD — Was told by Torrey that 73.3 per cent of district graduates passed the required test at the University of California and avoided taking remedial "bonehead English," a figure improved from 67 per cent in the Tam district in 1970-71.

CONSUMER — Learned that the second annual "Consumer Awareness Days" will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 12:40 p.m. at Redwood High School, with speakers alerting students to consumer problems.

SUNDAY — Waived its policy against use of Tamalpais High facilities on Sunday to permit a swimming meet this Saturday and Sunday; showers after a bicycle race Dec. 1, and a volleyball tournament next Jan. 26 and Feb. 2.

BILLS — Agreed to pay Crawford and Banning, architects, $198 for work at the continuation school; agreed to budget reserve transfers totaling $47,940; agreed to various other payments totaling $1,007,598, with Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar objecting to the payment of $322 for filing cabinets.

PERSONNEL — Granted leaves of absence for Redwood High teacher Margaret Bruce, spring, 1975; Tamalpais High teacher George Janicula, spring, 1975; and Redwood teacher Gordon Van Zee, 1975-76; named Laurence Moyer, Jeanne Samuelson, Duane Smith, William Wilkinson, Gloria Wong and Maria Van Buskirk adult school deans; appointed Fred Mack and Ted Cain to coaching positions.

CONFERENCE — Allocated $146 for Lawrence Leonard's attendance at a mathematics conference Nov. 14-17 in Anaheim and $151 for Ladar's attendance at an educational conference Dec. 6-8 in Anaheim.

Hub Schools To Consider Tax Election

A tax rate election to ease financial woes of the San Anselmo School District will be considered by district trustees at 8 p.m. Thursday at Red Hill School.

The schools administration has recommended the district call an election to boost the tax rate by 53 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, in order to raise $300,000 for 1975-76.

Should voters reject the tax proposal, "it is obvious that the San Anselmo School District will have lost most of its supplemental programs that have been established over a number of years," according to Supt. Frank R. Elliott.

Budget cuts which would be required if such an election fails would eliminate speech services, nursing services, psychological services, learning disability programs, all transportation for children, as well as reductions in district personnel, according to a memo prepared by Elliott.

Happy Gave GOP $157,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican political causes have benefited to the tune of $157,000 during the past 11 years from the generosity of Mrs. Happy Rockefeller.

Figures released by the Senate Rules Committee disclosed that more than $100,000 of this amount was contributed to the New York Republican State Committee.

Mrs. Rockefeller was revealed to have given, since her marriage in 1963 to the former New York governor, $4,500 to former Rhode Island governor John Chaffee for his abortive effort to unseat Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I. in 1972, $5,000 to Nixon re-election committees in 1971 and $7,000 to former Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. in 1970.

Even With A Million She'll Work

HAMILTON, Canada (AP) — As soon as Audrey Robb realized she had won a million tax-free dollars in Canada's Olympic Lottery, she called her boss to tell him she no longer needed a raise.

But the 40-year-old mother of three said she has no intention of quitting her job as a $133-a-week teletype operator.

Mrs. Robb, speaking to reporters at her Hamilton home, said she didn't initially realize she held one of the two numbers announced last night for the grand prizes.

"I thought I'd won $100," she said. "Then I realized all six numbers matched and I tried to telephone my mother and I couldn't dial the number."

Mrs. Robb, who was separated last week from her husband, said she will invest the money. "And I'll get a new car — a little compact, I guess," she said.

The lottery, the third in a series, is expected to add $3 million to the Olympic fund. The first two Olympic lotteries contributed $52 million.

3 Films Due At College

Three films are scheduled for showing at Olney Hall at College of Marin this week.

They are "East of Eden," starring James Dean, tonight at 8 o'clock, $2; "Jules and Jim," directed by Francois Truffaut, Thursday at 8 p.m., $2.50; and "Limelight," starring Charlie Chaplin, Friday at 8 p.m., $2.

Tam School Board Revises Closed Session Disclosure

The Tamalpais High School District Board last night revised its policy to permit slightly greater disclosure of matters it discusses in closed session.

When considering the appointment, employment or dismissal of an administrator, teacher, classified employee or superintendent, the board decided, it will specify which of those actions and which of those positions are under discussion.

The revised policy will come up for a vote at the board's next meeting Nov. 25.

At issue is the board's interpretation of the state's Ralph M. Brown Act, which spells out the reasons closed sessions may be held.

The board in mid-October asked for comments from Marin newspapers about its strict six-point policy, and received letters from the Independent-Journal and the Ebb Tide, a Tiburon weekly.

Chief disagreement centered around point No. 1, with the board saying in its policy, adopted Feb. 4, that it need only reveal that a discussion about the "appointment, employment or dismissal of a public officer or employee" was taking place. I-J City Editor Robert M. Strebeigh said in his letter the statement was vague.

Board President Bette Wallace suggested the revised wording, and the board agreed.

The board balked at applying the same specific wording to point No. 2, which now requires the board only to say that "hearing of complaints against a public officer or employee" is taking place.

"You have to be as vague as possible under the Brown Act on this point," said Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar. "You have the possibility that somebody's career could be wrecked. We are considering all kinds of wild charges here, so the information we let out (about who and what are being considered) should be impervious to any analysis."

The board also declined to change policy No. 4, in which it need only say "situations where the attorney-client privilege would obtain" were discussed.

"If the law doesn't require us to say (anything more specific), why should we say it?" said Trustee Lotte Schiller.

The three other points of the board's Feb. 4 policy generated no discussion. The board will continue to say "matters of national security," "expulsion, suspension or disciplinary action of a student" or "meet with its ... representatives ... regarding the salaries or ... fringe benefits" paid to employees.

Mrs. Wallace said the board is "committed to the public's right to know and ... bends over backwards to let our positions be known in public. Our performance is above reproach."

"This was really a discussion about what we say to the press, not about what we do," Mrs. Schiller said.

Open Space Bond Discussion Set

The Sausalito City Council will discuss an open space bond measure for the March election during a meeting at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Councilmen also will consider a request for a mortuary in a renovated Victorian home at 100 Caledonia Street.

Greyhound Drivers Strike

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Greyhound bus drivers and other workers went on strike yesterday, stranding passengers throughout the United States and jamming the buses of the line's principal competitor.

Negotiations broke off and it appeared the strike would last for at least several days, or longer.

(San Rafael terminal manager William White said he had had a rush this morning on refunds of future tickets bought in San Rafael. Any packages freighted before noon yesterday will be delivered by truck, he said.

(White said he expects to close the San Rafael terminal at noon tomorrow and, if the strike continues, will open it part-time to continue refunds and package pickup.

(No pickets were reported at the San Rafael or Novato terminals, he said.)

The passengers, from a bewildered Amish farm couple in Detroit to an angry Marine in Los Angeles, tried to find alternatives.

As the strike began late yesterday morning and yesterday afternoon, drivers began pulling in to the nearest terminals to drop off passengers, their journeys abruptly halted. Terminal, maintenance and office workers locked up the depots.

"The buses are coming to a rest as they get to a point where they can stop," said Salt Lake City Terminal Manager Bob Lindberg. He said it was impossible for supervisors to keep the bus service going.

Wandering in the Detroit terminal was a young Amish couple, particularly hard hit by the strike. The tenets of their religion, which prizes simplicity, forbid them to travel by auto or airplane, but bus travel is acceptable.

Raymond Byler, 25, and his wife were on their way from Randolph, N.Y., to a farm near Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Tell me, how long does a strike last?" asked Byler, whose religion tries to stay out of contact with the modern world.

"This isn't just a matter of being late getting someplace for me," complained a Marine in Los Angeles. "If I'm not down in San Diego in a few hours, I'm AWOL. This could really cause me a lot of trouble."

Another passenger stuck in Los Angeles, a tourist from Britain, said he had only enough money for a bus ticket to New York — to meet the group he is supposed to be flying back to London with, and if he could not get the bus, he would miss the plane and be stranded halfway around the world from home.

Long lines formed for seats on buses of Continental Trailways, the only other major transcontinental bus line.

"We are really overcrowded right now," said an employee at Continental's headquarters in Dallas.

Continental did not give an estimate of the percentage increase in its business.

Amtrak, the national passenger train network, said it would honor Greyhound tickets on its trains, and its express service would be available to shippers who had relied on Greyhound package delivery.

Amtrak warned that reservations are needed for many train seats.

Negotiations between Greyhound and the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Divisions — which represents 30 unions with members working for Greyhound — broke off when the strike began.

Federal mediator Guy Parent said he would try to get talks resumed when productive negotiations seem expectable, but that "possibly it could be days" before that occurs.

Golf Driving Range Plan Is Approved

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved a six-month permit for operation of a golf driving range on the west side of Highway 101 north of Novato.

The commission's action came at the request of Peter Lind, who was denied such a permit last month by the county zoning administrator because of inadequate sewage facilities.

In granting the permit yesterday, the commission said Lind could use portable toilets for employees pending approval of other facilities by the Regional Water Quality Control Board and county department of environmental services.

The range is proposed for land behind the Sportsman's Lodge motel, 1.5 miles north of Novato. The land is owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

Fairfax Bond Vote Is Favored

The Fairfax School District multipurpose room committee last night recommended that the district place a lease-purchase bond issue on the ballot to finance construction of a multipurpose room at White Hill School.

The committee, after axing a proposal to include a swimming pool in the plans, last night estimated cost of the facility to be about $800,000, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

The facility would include showers and locker rooms, Hammond said.

Under a lease-purchase bond, a nonprofit corporation borrows funds and builds a facility, with the district levying a tax to pay back the corporation, Hammond said. The superintendent added he had no estimate of what might be the annual tax per $100 of assessed valuation.

Hammong said a lease-purchase issue requires only a simple majority vote for passage, unlike traditional bond issues which require a two-thirds vote for passage.

In recommending the district board look into lease-purchase bond issues, the committee was mindful of a $750,000 bond issue for a multiuse gymnasium at White Hill School which voters rejected last June by 1,482 to 1,297.

The district board will consider the committee recommendation when it meets at 8 p.m. today at White Hill School.

Auto Industry Said On Verge Of A 1930s-Type Depression

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

As autos go so goes the U.S. economy. And the auto industry is on the verge of a 1930s-type depression, according to top company and union executives and the mayor of beleagured Detroit.

The warning came following a meeting yesterday between Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lynn Townsend, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock and Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young.

They agreed at a news conference that only action from Washington could stem layoffs nearing Depression Era levels in the auto industry.

"Washington has forgotten how critical this industry is to the U.S. economy," Woodcock said.

"What happens to this industry in Detroit is going to happen to the rest of the economy if it is not stopped," said Young.

The Motor Vehicle Association estimates the jobs of one out of every six persons in the country is directly or indirectly related to the auto industry.

Thousands of workers, from rubber workers to new car salesmen, have been thrown out of work in the wake of the worst new car selling period in a decade or more.

Young and Woodcock met with Townsend to discuss the impact of a further reduction in Chrysler's production to allow car dealers to move a four-month backlog of unsold 1975 cars.

Townsend said there will be "substantial plant closings" to trim 50,000 cars from fourth quarter production. However, he said, the firm would not shut down completely for the month of December, as was speculated.

The Big Three automakers have nearly 100,000 workers on temporary or indefinite layoffs.

General Motors and Ford Motor Co., as well as Chrysler, anticipate idling thousands more in the next few weeks. The industry has a record 80-day supply of unsold cars. Chrysler has twice that.

He Didn't Plan To Steal The Bus

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Cornelius Callahan was booked for vehicle theft yesterday when he tried to drive an empty Greyhound bus from the main depot here.

Police Inspector Vince Repetto, who was working off-hours as a security guard at the depot, ran after the bus and jumped aboard through an open door.

Callahan, who wasn't a Greyhound employee, told the inspector he had driving experience in the Central Valley and was just "practicing up."

"I'm between jobs," the 36-year-old Callahan said. "I heard that Greyhound was going out on strike, and I thought maybe they'd need some extra drivers."

An authorized driver returned the bus to its stall while Callahan was escorted to the city jail and booked.

Easier Pot Law Not In The Works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is not ready to support a move to soften marijuana laws, a White House official told Congress today.

But the administration is carefully watching laws adopted by Oregon, New Mexico and some other states which try to discourage marijuana smoking with a fine but no criminal penalties, said Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention.

"The concern now is to learn more about the state experiences," DuPont told members of a Senate subcommittee on alcoholism and narcotics.

DuPont insisted in formal testimony and in response to questions that neither he nor the White House was supporting decriminalization of laws against possession of marijuana for personal use at this time.

"I have not called for decriminalization of marijuana, either as a spokesman for the administration or in my own right," he testified.

"Current medical evidence, while it does not afford a decisive basis for public policy, nevertheles points to several harmful medical consequences which would justify a policy of continued discouragement of marijuana use."

In response to questions from panel chairman Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and other subcommittee members, DuPont admitted that he was "appalled" by national marijuana arrest figures.

Open Space Group Urged For Belvedere, Tiburon

The Belvedere City Council last night urged formation of a joint Tiburon-Belvedere committee to study the buying of open space in downtown Tiburon where a massive building project has been proposed by Sequoia Pacific of Santa Ana.

At the suggestion of Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commissioner Gary Gray, the council voted unanimously in favor of the idea, according to City Mgr. Bruce G. Lawson.

Members would be: One each from the Tiburon and Belvedere councils, one member from the Tiburon Committee for Downtown Plan Review, one each from the Tiburon and Belvedere parks and recreation commissions, one each from the Tiburon and Belvedere planning commissions, and two citizens at large.

The council asked that the committee consider the possibility of an open space acquisition district which would involve Belvedere and Tiburon. It asked the committee to report on its findngs by March 1, 1975.

The Sequoia Pacific proposal involves about 36 acres and includes plans for an inn-conference center, offices, retail shops, a marina and parking garages.

Also last night, the city manager told the council by memo that an earlier decision this fall to buy a new fire truck from P. E. Van Pelt and Co. for $19,500 would have to be reconsidered because the city did not seek competitive bids.

Suit Seeks Permit For Sewer Plant

The North Marin Water District went to court yesterday to win approval for a controversial sewage treatment plant it wants to build near Point Reyes Station.

The district asked for — and got — a Marin Superior Court order telling the state coastal commission it must either grant a permit for the three-million-gallon facility or appear in court at 9 a.m. Dec. 11.

The district, which contracted to build the system to serve 52 housing units built by the Coast Guard in Point Reyes Station, has been trucking waste four miles to a dump site near Tomales Bay for more than a year at a monthly cost of $5,000.

The regional coastal commission approved a permit in July, but the decision was appealed to the state commission, which denied the permit in September.

The action was taken after commission staff urged rejection on grounds the sewage system would adversely affect the environment.

The water district's lawsuit contends the state commission exceeded its legal authority because only one pump station and 4,000 feet of pipeline are within its jurisdiction.

Falling outside the coastal zone over which the commission has authority are a treatment plant, aerating pond, storage pond, and irrigation field, said the suit, filed by Walnut Creek attorney Frederick Bold Jr.

Push Is On To Have A Woman Named As Wornum Successor

Appointment of a woman to replace Michael Wornum on the Marin County Board of Superviosrs has been urged by the Marin chapter of the National Women's Political Caucus.

Wornum was elected Nov. 5 to the state Assembly, and is supposed to step down in time to take his seat in Sacramento when the new legislative session opens Dec. 2.

In letters to both Gov. Ronald Reagan and Governor-elect Edmund G. Brown Jr. (who would appoint Wornum's successor if the supervisor postponed taking his new seat until January) the caucus said selection of a woman would "tip the scales in favor of more balanced representation in Marin County."

(Vera L. Schultz of Mill Valley, who served from 1953 through 1960, was the last woman supervisor in Marin.)

"Women must now assume their proportionate share of the responsibilities and benefits of public office," the caucus said. It added the chapter "has a talent bank of women whose accomplishments and experience qualify them to be excellent supervisors."

Susan Anderson, political action coordinator for the caucus, told the Independent-Journal that the "talent bank" did not include Virginia Brunini of Tiburon because she is not a member.

She is the only woman among the three persons generally regarded as the leading candidates for the appointment.

She said three caucus members had "indicated an interest" in the appointment, but declined to identify them. Mrs. Anderson added that many caucus members are qualified for the job.

The other two commonly mentioned candidates for the seat are Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley and Assistant County Counsel Richard V. Godino.

Water Charges Are Increased

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors voted yesterday to increase the rate the City of San Francisco charges for water in four counties by 17.4 per cent.

Arthur H. Frye, Water Department general manager, predicted the boost would cost the payers in an average home 49 cents a month.

A previous vote by the city Public Utilities Commission for a 17.4 per cent increase had been rejected by the board which decided to charge 14.5 to residents of the city and 20.5 per cent to out-of-city buyers.

San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy Reservoir in the Sierra Nevada provides water for the city, for San Mateo and Santa Clara counties and for parts of Alameda County.

Carpet Pad Explodes

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A polyester foam pad, being installed as a base for a living room carpet, exploded yesterday, causing $8,000 worth of damage to the home of Mrs. Patricia Andersen.

Charles Mingroni of the Santa Clara County Fire District said the pad exploded into flames like a bomb, but that the carpenter who was installing it, Rusty Webber, 21, suffered only minor injuries.

The heat became so intense, Mingroni said, that it melted a segment of window glass. What ignited the foam was not known.

Actress Fights Repossession

ESTES PARK, Colo. (UPI) — Actress Sue Lyon is determined to prevent a car dealer from repossessing a truck she leased 13 months ago, and she is going to work as a cocktail waitress to drum up the necessary money.

The 28-year-old former film star of "Lolita," who said her career has skidded since she wed convict Gary (Cotton) Adamson, disclosed yesterday that she has engaged an attorney to fight the repossession move.

Miss Lyon blasted Canon City car dealer Lloyd Berry for trying to repossess her $171.19-per-month truck.

"I don't understand the guy," she complained. "I told him my check would be a couple of days late. Well, he's not going to get away with this."

Handicapped Given Training In The Practicalities Of Life

By JOAN LISETOR

In educating the handicapped the practical skills are often overlooked, according to Barbara Tarasoff, principal of Marindale School for physically disabled.

The school for preschool through high school age students has always concentrated on the academics. This will, of course, continue, but added to the curriculum for junior high and high school students is a new program. Preparation for Potential Independence.

Several students Tuesday visited the Pobble Shop, an outlet for articles made by handicapped persons in Marin. The students are making key rings, Christmas ornaments, pot holders and ceramic items to be sold at the shop.

What is now an avocation, Mrs. Tarasoff said, will hopefully become pre-vocational training for some. With their profits the students will open a class bank account to get the experience in handling money. The money will be used to build a greenhouse, where the science of nurturing plants will be taught, another learning project for both fun and profit.

"Our concentration is on the practical, functional skills and getting the students out in the community," Mrs. Tarasoff said.

The students took a field trip to the Emporium in Northgate, used the elevators and escalators, found items through the store index and priced them.

"The Emporium has ramps and access for handicapped, so it was a good place to start," Mrs. Tarasoff said. "Our biggest problms are with public transportation and barrier-free architecture."

Other trips are planned to restaurants and cultural events, new experiences for many of the students.

"They will phone for reservations, write for tickets and arrange for transportation themselves," Mrs. Tarasoff said. "The project is geared individually according to each student's potential for independence."

The project will include an analysis of the student's functional skills and academic learning to determine which skills will best meet his anticipated adult needs, whether it be custodial care, homebound employment, sheltered workshop, occupational skills or professional training, she said.

Educating the students is really just half the battle, according to Mrs. Tarasoff. The other half is educating the public, making the community aware of the needs of the disabled and allowing handicapped persons to be integrated into society.

The program will culminate in an independent living situation for the students. Groups of five will take turns living in the two respite homes for handicapped students in Marin. With the help of one staff person the students will plan, shop for and cook meals; do their own housework; plan their leisure time; and as much as possible lead the life of a nonhandicapped person.

"We are just getting our feet wet," Mrs. Tarasoff said. "What we want is to go from disability to ability and from dependence to independence."

65 Years Of Marriage Celebrated By Hammonds

Anniversary celebrations are nothing new to the Rev. and Mrs. Stephen Reginald Hammond of Mill Valley. The couple celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary at a family gathering.

In addition to wedding anniversaries the Hammonds have been honored through the years by the congregations Reverend Hammond has served on anniversaries of his ordination into the Episcopal priesthood.

Born in Guilford, England, Hammond came to Winnipeg, Canada when he was 10 and was attending seminary at St. John's College in Winnipeg when he married the former Hattie W. Reid.

In 1927 the Hammonds went to Ventura, where Reverend Hammond was rector of a church for 20 years. After four years in Los Angeles they came to Mill Valley at the urging of their son, the late Rev. Keith Hammond, then rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito. Three surviving sons are rectors, the Revs. D. Murray Hammond, W. Reid Hammond and Fred C. Hammond. A fourth son H. Reginald Hammond is superintendent of schools in Fairfax. They also have a daughter Helen Biggers.

The Hammonds supervised the building of a new church for the Church of Our Saviour in Mill Valley, completed in 1955. The following year Reverend Hammond resigned his position because the church specifies a rector must at the age of 72, but the bishop asked him to start a church in the Glenwood area of San Rafael.

The couple was also honored Sunday by the congregation of the Church of Our Saviour.

Oatmeal Is Top Breakfast Cereal

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — More than 8 million Americans a year sit down to eat a bowl of hot oatmeal on an average morning — half again as many as eat any other hot or cold cereal — and this number is growing by leaps and bounds.

According to an industry spokesman, the burgeoning consumption of the wholesome cereal is due largely to "its economy compared with other hot breakfast foods and the introduction of convenient, new instant oatmeal varieties and flavors."

Quilt Show Turns Quite A Tidy Profit

The 12-member Sunny Hills Guild No. 5 of Belvedere-Tiburon earned more than $2,000 at their quilt show to benefit Sunny Hills.

The members and nine of their friends stitched squares for the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Quilt which went to Ruth Waters of Tiburon.

The second annual Sunny Hills Benefit Quilt Show was held Wednesday, Nov. 13, at San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere, attended by 400 people.

The little guild attributes its success to exposure of the Landmarks Quilt at the Sunny Hills Grape Festival, the Canterbury Faire, the Tiburon Boardwalk and even a polling place on Nov. 5.

Bank of America bent its rule about not hanging posters or art to display the quilt. The Bel Aire kindergarten class went to the bank to study it; the children are now planning a quilt of their own.

The show, planned by Joan Dupont, included a display of 60 quilts borrowed from Belvedere and Tiburon homes.

"People would stop to look at a quilt and say, 'If you do this again next year, you can borrow my quilt,' " said guild member Marsha Felton.

The guild will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 20 at the home of Kathy Halee of Belvedere to plan next year's quilt.

Workshops Will Offer Decor And Gift Ideas

Inexpensive decorating and gift ideas will be shared at four holdiay workshops sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association, 1618 Mission Avenue, San Rafael. All classes will be offered from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. or from 7 to 10 p.m.

Ornamental and edible holiday cookies will be the subject of the first workshop on Nov. 25. Participants are asked to bring their own cookie cutters.

On Dec. 3 the workshop will focus on making holiday cards from silk-screen, rubber stamp, intaglio linoleum block and potato print techniques.

Paper stencils used for printing on fabric wall hangings will be demonstrated Dec. 5. Participants should bring fabric for the panel (any sized material heavier than unbleached muslin).

The last workshop on Dec. 10 will cover Polish paper cuttings, a sculptured paper technique for wall hangings or ornaments.

Instructors at the workshops are Joyce Gregg of Terra Linda, formerly with the Dixie School District, and Rosemary Glodowski of Mill Valley, a painter and lithographer.

Cost of the workshops is $20 for all four or $6 for any one. Registration should be made with the YWCA.

Christmas Cards Sold For Benefit

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

He Wants The Nostalgia Kick Taken Back To Knock-Knocks

RAP:

Everybody's on a '50s trip, so why don't we bring back some of the games they played then — like "Knock-knock." Or was that before the '50s? Anyway, my folks were playing it the other night and here's some they came up with:

"Knock-knock."

"Who's there?"

"Depress."

"Depress what?"

"Depress is what de pants get at de cleaners."

Got any more knock-knocks, Rap? Or your readers? — PUN-GENT

PUN-GENT:

A pun may be the lowest form of humor, but I love them. So at the risk of a few boos I'll contribute a few:

A bigamist is an Italian fog.

Toothache comes before threeth ache.

Esteem is what you put on eshirt while ironing.

Okay, when you stop groaning, how about sending us a few of your best knock-knocks or puns, readers? — SUE

DEAR READERS:

Knock-knock.

Who's there?

Sue.

Sue who?

Sue who's going to do penance with a double dose of heavy questions next week? — Sue Bottel, that's who! Signed, Her Mother — HELEN

RAP:

After reading a letter in your column, the seventh grade at the Friends School, Mullica Hills, N.J., felt a real concern for 10-year-old Timmy Copeland who is paralyzed from a fall and has been hospitalized for 11 months.

Each student in our class plans to write to Timmy at least once every two weeks, and not stop writing until he is well.

Just wanted you to know that your letter had results. — Narda Sherrod, President, Seventh Grade Class.

DEAR SEVENTH GRADE:

You're terrific! Thanks from Timmy and from us. — HELEN AND SUE

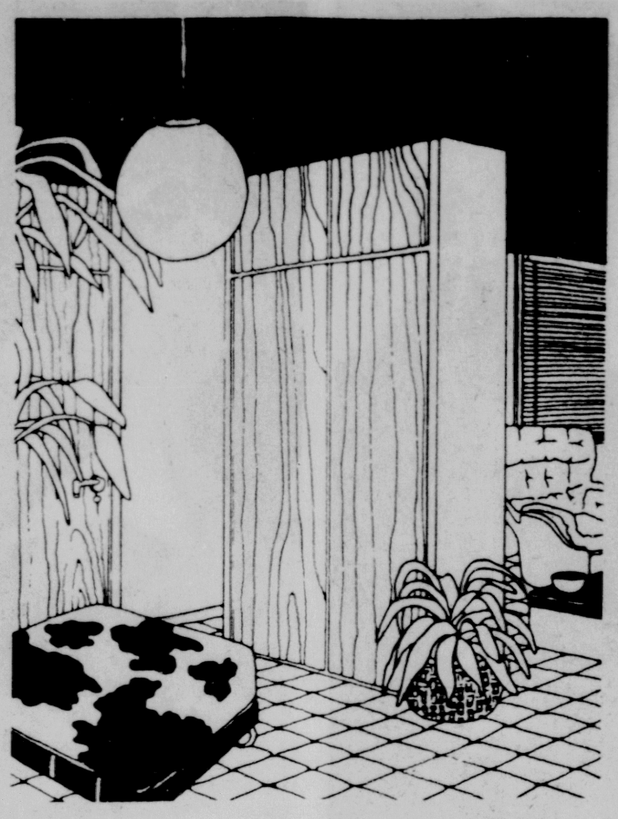
Range-Top Utensil Needs Tight Cover

When cooking on top of the range, use a utensil with a close fitting cover. Bring the food to a boil on high heat, then turn to simmer and cook, according to the home economics department of Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

This enables one to use a small amount of water which in turn preserves vitamins and minerals. Also, it prevents boil-overs which mean extra work to clean up, according to P-G and E.



DESIGN FOR PEOPLE

Closet Helps Restore Home's Foyer Feeling

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Feature Syndicate

Today's home is a lot smaller than the home built 15 or 20 years ago. Ceilings are lower and floor space is at a premium with construction costs at an all-time high.

Something had to give and what the average house lost was the entry, the foyer — that wonderful room that introduced you to the home and provided a hospitable transition from the outside to the inside.

It didn't have to be the Diplomatic Reception Room, as the official entry to the White House is called; it could just be the size of a large closet. But it was a gracious space where messages could be left, coats stored and boots removed.

In today's house one steps from the outside directly into the living room. This kind of instant parlor may be a perfect solution to the space squeeze, but it certainly takes the glamor out of the grand entrance, not to mention the problem of coat storage or keeping the room draft-free and warm.

Just recently, I was faced with the very same set of circumstances; the front door opened directly into the living room and in the winter months, this house in the northeast was very costly to heat; with the fuel shortage, every draft that accompanied the opening or closing of the front door made the room feel something like a Siberian privy in January.

I DECIDED to create a protective "wall" and at the same time create an illusion of entrance foyer. So I constructed a closet just deep enough for coats, which made it 2 feet deep inside.

There is a small space to the left of the closet so that the space flows freely around the closet and so that one can see who enters from the living room side, but it is close enough to the outside wall and front door to protect the seated group from cold blasts from outdoors.

The closet doors are on the new foyer side, of course, for easy convenience with coats. The big plus is that on the living room side, this closet makes another "wall" for furniture or an accent.

In my room, I covered the back of the closet with wall-to-wall carpet — actually a Rya rug, in a large single geometric pattern, that fit the 5-foot-wide by 8-foot-high dimension of the closet exactly and looks like a mural commissioned specially for this spot.

I matched the detailing of the closet to the front door, keeping the upper section with its sliding doors in the same proportion as the fixed panel over the entrance door, thus taking the closet to the ceiling. If I had wanted an even greater feeling of space, I could have cut the closet down to the top of the doors and let the space flow above as well as on either side of it.

The open top would have been a good place to locate lights shining up to the ceiling and creating a pleasant indirect light. Instead I used a ceiling mounted fixture, but to give continuity to the space I used a warm toasty quarry tile on the floor that continues directly into the living room, minimizing the vertical accent of the new divider wall in this small space.

Landscape Plan Change Opposed

The Mill Valley City Council last night dabbled with the idea of hiring a local nursery to design landscaping for the Miller Avenue improvement project and then decided to stick to an earlier plan of hiring a landscape architect for the job.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard continued her protests during the meeting against hiring any more consultants to work on the controversial two-block road project. She urged the council to go straight to local nurseries and ask them for planting plans and bids on the project. She said her plan would get greenery on the street more quickly and thus end public protest against the amount of asphalt and concrete in the reworked road.

At their last meeting, councilmen tentatively picked landscape architect Ralph Alexander of Mill Valley to design planting on Miller. Last night, councilmen were scheduled merely to approve terms of his contract. But Mrs. Barnard wanted to scratch Alexander entirely.

Initially, Councilmen Robert E. Capron and Gerald J. Hood supported her.

However, Councilman Ivan S. Poutiatine termed her idea "the most absurd proposal I've ever heard — going to a plant salesman for a professional's job."

The original designer of the Miller Avenue improvement project, Edmond C. Kagi of Sasaki-Walker of Sausalito, also told the council that if it went directly to a nursery, it would be acting "immorally and illegally."

When the council finally agreed to stand on its earlier decision to hire Alexander, Mrs. Barnard exploded: "We're totally trapped, it's insufferable, it's the kind of thing that makes you want to resign from the city council."

"It better be good, it better be a beautiful plan," she warned Alexander.

The council tried to pin Alexander down on an early finishing date for his plans but agreed that there would have to be at least two reviews by the architectural advisory commission and one by the council.

Alexander said that if city reviews went quickly he could finish by early January. However, he also said he needed three weeks to prepare a preliminary concept, three weeks to prepare a final plan and a month to do working drawings. Even without extensive city review, this time schedule seems to indicate he cannot finish until mid-February.

At the council's suggestion, he said he would start by picking out trees first for Miller Avenue. The council said it would forego extensive city reviews on this part of the greenery in hopes of planting the trees as quickly as possible.

Besides the Miller Avenue work, Alexander will be doing planting plans for median strips on Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue. His fee will total $3,300.

Mill Valley Turkey Race Is Approved

A Thanksgiving weekend turkey trot can be held in a Mill Valley parking lot, the city council decided last night in spite of protests from some of its members.

The council gave permission for turkey races and a pie baking contest to be held from 1 to 4 p.m. on Nov. 29 in the Old Brown's Store parking lot on Lytton Square. Proceeds from the event, conceived by the management consulting firm, Solutions, hired by Old Brown's Store, will go to the Big Brothers of Marin and San Francisco.

The turkeys won approval narrowly. Councilmen first voted 3-2 against the races after Councilman Robert E. Capron argued that they would contribute to "making Mill Valley known more and more as an entertainment place."

But then Ron Young of Solutions agreed to scratch a bluegrass band which had been scheduled as part of the event. Councilman Jean S. Barnard subsequently reconsidered her previous negative vote on the idea, and the council approved the races by a 3-2 vote. Councilmen Capron and Gerald J. Hood continued to oppose the idea.

Young told the council that the turkeys would race inside an enclosed cage in the parking lot and that the county humane society had approved the racing method. Local 4-H Club members will supervise the turkeys.

He also promised not to advertise the races outside of Mill Valley. Young said his firm had thought up the races as a way to improve the store relations with the community.

Loan Troubles

IRVINE (UPI) — Lion Country Safari Inc. disclosed yesterday that it is behind more than $2.5 million in loan and interest payments due to declining attendance.

Betty Pierce Placed On Plan Commission

Betty Pierce, who served as vice chairman of Corte Madera's citizens' general plan committee, was named by the town council last night to replace the ousted James W. McClintock on the town planning commission. (Another Corte Madera Town Council story, page 1.)

Mrs. Pierce, of 465 Montecito Drive, will serve out the remaining year of McClintock's four-year term.

The council announced the appointment after a two-hour closed session in which 14 nominees were considered.

Councilmen earlier in the evening had accepted McClintock's resignation — which they had requested — and voted to send him a letter thanking him for his eight years on the panel.

Mayor Robert J. Flahive, who last week said the council asked McClintock's departure to bring the commission "more in time with the current thinking of the council," amplified on that statement in response to questions from the audience.

As the elected representative of town citizens, the council has an obligation to see that the planning commissions and all appointed bodies reflect the current thinking of voters, Flahive said.

Besides, added Councilman Jana Haehl, some citizens felt that two four-year terms on the planning commission were enough for any commissioner.

The council also reappointed I. Thomas Zaragoza to four more years after his present term expires Dec. 31.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

HAHN — Postponed to Dec. 2 consideration of a $10 million claim from Ernest W. Hahn for alleged inverse condemnation of property he seeks to turn into a regional shopping center.

PERMIT — Granted to Frederick Goodwin a permit to operate a roofing company out of his house at 142 Granada Drive.

FEES — Adopted a new schedule of building and planning fees and established three new fees: changing the general plan, $300, negative environmental declaration, $50, and home occupation inspections, $10.

ZONES — Established no parking zones on the north side of Lucky Drive and the east side of Fifer Avenue where the two intersect and directed placement of a stop sign on westbound Fifer Avenue.

CABLE — Appointed a citizens committee to study a rate increase requested by Tele-Vue Systems cable television.

MOSQUITO — Reappointed Albert E. Kogler to a new two-year term on the Marin Mosquito Abatement District board.

The show, adapted by Consuelo Melgar Pye and featuring 20 Marin dancers and musicians, is the story of a sorceress and her lost image.

The Nov. 30 evening performance will be a benefit for Bread and Roses, a Mill Valley-based agency organizing entertainment for hospitals, prisons and other institutions.

'None Of Above' Ballot Proposed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A University of Utah graduate student has an idea which could finally give the average voter revenge against evasive politicians: the "none of the above" ballot.

Chet McDowell proposes election ballots should include a box for a voter to check if he believes none of the candidates is qualified.

"If, say, 30 per cent or so of the voters check the box, then a re-election would be called," says McDowell, 26, who is working on a master's degree in leisure studies.

"Frankly, I'd be willing as a taxpayer to pay for another election — in order to get somebody who had something to say."

Latin-Rock Band To Head Benefit

The Latin-rock band Azteca will headline a benefit concert at the College of Marin gymnasium Friday from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Also on the bill are Howard Wales and Horns, Strings and Sings. Tickets cost $3.50 general admission and $2.50 for College of Marin students. Proceeds go to the La Raza student organization.

Sierra Club Guards Rocks

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Sierra Club and other conservationists say if Congress won't prevent the theft of Indian-carved rocks in the Mojave Desert, they will do it themselves.

The word came in a Sierra Club publication yesterday.

Barricades are already going up near the petroglyphs attributed to Indians. Their purpose is to keep motor vehicles far away from the heavy rocks — about 100 yards — preventing them from being loaded up and hauled away.

Another Election For People To Ignore

We have too many elections.

This has long been recognized. Last year, the legislature did something about it, by passing Senate Bill 230 by state Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, establishing five election dates over each two-year period, with which all others must be consolidated.

The five are the first Monday in March each year (for school board elections in odd-numbered and municipal elections in even-numbered years), the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June in even-numbered years (for the primaries), and the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November (for the general election in even-numbered years and statewise measures plus elections in some kinds of special districts in odd-numbered years).

THIS GOT RID of quite a few election dates for assorted special districts. But this year the legislature (the same legislature, in the second spasm of its two-year miscarriage) undid what it had done last year by adding another election date.

The new election is the last Tuesday in May in odd-numbered years (such as 1975).

It was added by Assembly Bill 4180 by Assemblyman Jim Keysor, D-San Fernando, which whisked through in the mad final week of the legislature's first biennial session, when bills were passing so fast the lawmakers didn't know what they were voting on. It got signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, perhaps because he was so bogged down with all those last-minute bills. Anyhow, it is now Section 2054 of the Elections Code.

The purpose of adding the new date is obscure to us. But it is likely to be seized upon by school districts in attempts to get increases in the amount of spending per pupil beyond that authorized under "Senate Bill 90" ceilings.

And since other governing bodies, from the legislature itself on down, are prone to find things they think must be put before the electorate, the last Tuesday in May probably will provide more cluttered ballots to be ignored by more stay-at-home non-voters.

RATHER THAN adding elections, we should do something about getting the voters out for those we have. Every additional election date tends to reduce the turnout — as amply evidenced by the usually poor responses for municipal and school board elections.

One thing we might do is copy what has been done in most other democratic countries: Have two days of voting, on week-ends.

The United States is almost alone in holding elections on regular working days. Most countries open the polls on Saturday and Sunday, providing ample opportunity for everyone to cast his ballot. And all of them — even those where voting is a mere formality because of one-party dictatorships — have much greater voter turnouts than we do.

Congress has not as yet shown the same predilection toward playing around with election dates that characterizes our state legislature. (For that matter, Congress does not introduce nor pass nearly so many bills as the California Legislature). But we would suggest that Congress might turn its attention to providing weekend elections in the hope of getting more Americans to exercise this basic right and duty of citizenship — and that the California Legislature fall in step by doing the same.

A Simplistic Idea

The notion seems to be gripping America, and Marin in particular, that you are what you eat. The idea of a balanced diet of wholesome food being good for the health is, of course, a sound one. But it is a quantum jump from this to the idea that food is everything. It is unbalanced thinking and is as dangerous as unbalanced eating. Health is a blend of diet, exercise, habit, heredity, environment, and a good measure of luck. Of course, diet is important. But not everything.

County Plan Needs Implementation Now

If I read rightly, the thrust of the lead editorial in Thursday's (Nov. 14) edition was its assertion that if the environmental protection goals of Marin County's adopted county-wide plan are secured by implementing the plan's growth control policies, we shall bring about the socially undesirable result of "favoring those with higher incomes and causing a shift toward an older and wealthier population . . . (and) making the environment available only to those with increasingly high incomes." In short, that home prices and rents will go up and force people in low and moderate income brackets to find housing elsewhere. The I-J's answer to this problem is to permit the housing supply to catch up to demand.

It is true that the county-wide plan has as one of its goals the protection of Marin's environment; another of its goals is the maintenance of the diverse economic and social segments of our population, recognizing that this requires, inter alia, that low and moderate income housing must be provided. Among the strategies proposed to achieve these two goals, protection of the environment and maintenance of the population mix, are policies favoring growth in the eastern corridor of the county and restricting growth elsewhere in the county.

. . . It should be noted that while the plan does indeed contemplate growth, it also attempts to provide the mechanism to regulate the rate of growth to prevent unwanted community disruption, to cushion the impact of growth.

If we who live in Marin are unwilling to permit any growth, we shall suffer the socially undesirable consequences of no growth. If we adopt the I-J's laissez-faire position, we shall suffer the consequences of unrestricted growth which are demonstrably unacceptable to those who live here now.

In the absence of other viable proposals to resolve this dilemma, we can do as much as may be politically acceptable to implement the plan we have, changing the plan from time to time as the need becomes apparent and aware that we will be neither wholly successful nor wholly unsuccessful.

Vitamins Should Not Be Confused With Drugs

Thank you for your sane article on vitamins. While you are somewhat opposed to them you are also reasonable.

May I please add my comments:

1. Pills are a dirty work (like dope, etc.). Actually most natural vitamins are pure food. Vitamin A is fish oil, vitamin B is brewer's yeast, etc. I myself refer to them as food concentrates.

2. Vitamins are not expensive. They are not meant to be a cure. They keep one healthy, that I know for a fact. By the way vitamin C, used in certain combinations, is a very powerful medicine, contrary to so-called educated opinion.

3. The FDA is a big laugh, but a tragic one. Read the "Chemical Feast" for complete details.

4. Of course some vitamins can be harmful, but amature understanding of nutrition will avert this possibility. By the way, what is the death toll every year for aspirin?

5. I would perfer to gain my nutrition via a balanced diet, but that is almost impossible, and very expensive. The so-called minimum daily requirements are in my opinion and practice insane, they will lead you to an early grave.

6. I am health minded. I do not smoke or drink, or use coffee and tea. Life is precious; I intend to take care of mine.

7. Please go get the facts. Talk to the health nuts, observe them. What will you be like at 75?

MARQUIS CHILDS

Ford's Trip May Impress Him With Hazards Of Nuclear Policy

WASHINGTON — When in doubt, travel. That has been the prescription President Ford's recent predecessors have fallen back on when troubles at home have closed in. After all, you get on television via satellite every night in an exotic setting with theoretically cheering crowds hailing your presence.

But Ford's travels this week are likely to be bedeviled by troubles abroad that cannot be resolved by a television spectacular. Whether this is the wrong trip at the wrong time is a question that hangs over the presiden'ts quick sortie to the Far East.

IN JAPAN, Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka is in a political crunch so acute that he can hardly survive the year. The underlying anti-Americanism has been sharpened by the revelation that American naval vessels in Japanese ports retain their nuclear weapons.

This was followed by a report of a secret agreement between the governments of Japan and the United States permitting transit of ships or planes carrying nuclear arms.

But there is something to be said for the first visit of an incumbent president to Japan, if only to rebut the Japanese feeling of neglect and indifference on the part of the other great Pacific power.

Responding to an invitation that had been accepted by former President Nixon, President Ford would have caused serious offense if he had called the visit off.

IT IS THE STOP in South Korea after Japan that raises the gravest doubts about the disarray of America's nuclear policy. Besides 40,000 American troops, the United States has nuclear weapons in a dictatorship ruled by President Chung Hee Park in spite of frequent outbursts of violence.

The pressure on Ford to put Seoul on his itinerary came from forces notably the military, believing that once on the scene he will endorse Park and the need to keep American troops in place.

Adm. Gene R. La Rocque (Ret.) in testimony before a Senate subcommittee revealed, more by inadvertence than intention, that American ships carrying nuclear weapons move in and out of Japanese ports.

But the principal thrust of his testimony, as director of the Center for Defense Information, was on the danger of nuclear weapons deployed in countries where terrorists, by seizing one or more of these weapons, can blackmail the world. This was La Rocque's testimony on South Korea:

"I think we are in great danger and it is growing all the time as long as Park stays in power and continues to increase his power in South Korea. It is just a matter of time before we have a major disagreement with the South Koreans. They have a larger military force than the North Koreans . . . They don't really need us there.

"If we can pull out gracefully with our nuclear weapons and our men, we will get out with a whole skin. But if we wait until they throw us out, they may also decide to keep those nuclear weapons and use them as bargaining chips for whatever they want to obtain from the United States. It is a very hazardous situation."

THE SAME THREAT exists in both Turkey and Greece. The conflict on Cyprus and the Kissinger policy, or lack of it, have stirred deep enmities in both these NATO partners.

The outlook in Greece is uncertain. Turkey refused to receive Kissinger on his recent swing and demonstrators marched through the streets of Ankara denouncing him as a murderer.

All this points up the urgent need to bring order out of a random nuclear policy that has seen the military profligate in deploying the ultimate weapon with alleged friends around the world.

On Turkish soil, Greek soil, South Korean soil, Americans retain control of these caches, which are stored in steel and concrete igloos. But the size of the uniformed American guard is small.

Perhaps on his travels, President Ford may be impressed by the need to tackle this helter-skelter policy so charged with peril for all concerned. Ashe moves from banquet to banquet and conference to conference, ending in Vladivostok with Leonid Brezhnev, there will be no time for thought.

But on his return, if ever he has an opportunity to reflect in the oval office, he may come up with some tough decisions.

Two Wings Of GOP Battling For Ear Of Man In White House

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anyone who thinks the argument between the Republican left and right that started after the 1974 elections is just a family spat at the funeral ought to take another look at the corpse. "Tain't dead.

What happened to the Republican party Nov. 5 did not require the services of an undertaker. While the loss of 40-plus House seats may have justified calling the Democratic victory a landslide, the Republicans came out of the elections with fewer losses in the Senate and statehouses than many independent observers (and many Republicans) expected.

By winning some new governorships, especially Ohio, and by holding statehouses and Senate seats where they were said to be in deep trouble — Michigan, Kansas, New York, for three — the GOP showed it remains a vital force in American politics.

BUT OVERRIDING the mid-term election results is the fact that the Republican party holds the presidency. In terms of survival, occupancy of the White House can be the factor that wipes out all the bitter losses of 1974 and provides the opportunity to rebuild toward victory in 1976.

The key is Gerald R. Ford's conduct of the presidency, and that is what Republican conservatives and liberals have been arguing about since the dawn of Nov. 6.

Despite a congressional record that placed him to the right of center in the GOP, Ford has not positioned himself firmly in either ideological camp as president, and now both sides are interpreting the election returns in a way that they hope will give him a shove in their direction.

THE LIBERAL (self-described "moderate") Republican Ripon Society issued an analysis of the election returns that concluded the GOP "will continue to shrivel if its members insist upon nominating candidates whose appeal does not extend beyond the hard-core rank and file" of the party.

"It has long been manifest that Republicans have to nominate moderates or progressives if they want to win statewide office in the more populous states," a Ripon statement said.

As backup for its conclusion, the group said "30 of the 70 members of the archconservative Republican House 'Steering Committee' lost Nov. 5, while "only one of the 32 members of the moderate Republican 'Wednesday Group' failed in reelection bids."

Ripon adds: "To blame the large losses of the GOP on Watergate alone obscures the fact that the victims of Watergate tended to be those congressmen who made no effort to broaden the base of their constituency."

THE CONSERVATIVE RESPONSE to the election is to deny that it was a liberal victory. Patrick J. Buchanan, former speechwriter in the Nixon White House and a staunch conservative, wrote that successful Democrats like Sen. George S. McGovern and Gary Hart campaigned in 1974 on conservative themes and that "the national trend remains to the right."

To Buchanan, the election Ford and other Republican leaders ought to be looking at is 1972, when he said the GOP gave voters "clear and compelling reasons" for supporting it.

And, he says, if the Republican party is "ever to forge a new coalition" of Americans opposed to liberal policies and programs, "it must set aside the politics of 'conciliation, compromise, cooperation and consensus'."

Ripon and Buchanan were making public statements. But the ear they were trying to catch was in the White House.

$100 Contribution To Wornum May Cost Meyer County Office

Racers who get out in first place too early in any contest face the risk of running out of steam. Witness Dean N. Meyer's early gallop for the vacancy due next month when Marin County Supervisor Michael Wornum is supposed to depart for his new seat in the state Assembly.

It is far from clear who is likely to take Meyer's place as leading candidate for the governor to appoint to Wornum's seat, but the only other name being considered seriously by most is Virginia Brunini, administrative assistant to Assemblyman William T. Bagley. Wornum won his seat after Bagley chose not to seek re-election.

Meyer's biggest liability is a $100 contribution he made to Wornum's primary election campaign. The political disloyalty at issue is that Meyer is a Republican, Wornum is a Democrat — and the governor is known to have a certain preference for fellow Republicans. Meyer not only gave money to a Democrat, but what's especially galling to Republicans is that Meyer thus failed to support Wornum's GOP opponent, a high official from Reagan's own administration, A. Alan Hill.

Resentment toward Meyer reportedly is running high among the governor's staff, and local Republicans have peppered the staff with letters protesting consideration of Meyer. As put by one observer, Meyer's contribution to Wornum may prove to be the most expensive he ever has made.

WORNUM HAS THREATENED to wait until January to take office unless Gov. Ronald Reagan appointed someone acceptable to Wornum — such as Meyer. Wornum's legal right to delay taking office, however, has come under intense legal fire.

Both the legislative counsel and attorney general have agreed that the constitution apparently requires the governor immediately to declare Wornum's seat vacant if he is now sworn in Dec. 2, and to call a special election.

Some Republicans, uncertain about both Meyer and Mrs. Brunini (her boss, after all, is not universally beloved by so-called "real Republicans," who claim Bagley is not as faithful as they to the party's principles), are casting about for other prospects. The woods, however, are either empty or very quiet.

MARIN COUNTY Transit District directors should be forced to ride on the local bus system they have devised for the public. We had the misfortune of having to depend on public transit last week to get all the way from San Anselmo's Hub to downtown San Rafael. The adventure took 35 minutes, including a long wait for a bus. That's roughly seven times longer than it takes to make the short trip by car.

U.S. Commits Another Gaffe In Relations With Its Neighbors

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor)

Latin American efforts to end diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba came within two votes of success at the Quito, Ecuador, meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers. Guatemala and Haiti, originally lined up with the majority wanting an end to the sanctions, decided at the last minute to abstain from voting.

There is strong hemisphere suspicion that Washington had a hand in these two vote changes. The United States denies it, but it will take more than verbal denials to convince a growingly skeptical Latin America that all was open and aboveboard at Quito.

ROBERT INGERSOLL, head of the U.S. delegation, claimed after the vote that "we have not worked against the resolution," noting that the U.S. abstained. But many Latin Americans agree with Gonzalo Facio, the Costa Rican foreign minister, who said the abstention placed Washington "squarely with the minority" on the Cuba issue.

Given the present mood in Latin America, Washington stands the risk of becoming isolated from its hemisphere neighbors who disagree with the U.S. not only on Cuba, but also on a whole range of political and economic issues.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's absence from the Quito session has come in for sharp criticism also. In explaining Dr. Kissinger's absence, Washington argued he was busy elsewhere and that anyway the Quito meeting was ill-timed and too hastily organized.

THIS SORT OF ARGUMENT, however, really begs the question. Washington's closest neighbors deserve Dr. Kissinger's attention. Moreover, the Cuba issue itself had been on the hemisphere agenda for months.

The whole affair appears yet another U.S. gaffe in Latin American policy. Dr. Kissinger would be well advised to make amends by early consultations with hemisphere leaders. Delay in trying to undo the damage done at Quito will only make U.S. efforts in Latin America more difficult in the future.

Unconcerned Citizens' Victory: No Rascal Elected To Office

The Unconcerned Citizens Party came to power after the 1974 election when the majority of voters stayed away from the polls.

The day after the election, Howard Spindrift, a defrocked political science teacher, chuckled with glee as he read the headline: "Voters Apathetic."

"I told those idiots that nobody cares, but they wouldn't listen to me," he muttered.

SPINDRIFT DECIDED it was time to make his move, so he started attending town council meetings and disrupting debates by shouting, "What difference does it make?"

Then he started carrying a sign that said, "I don't give a hoot," and cajoling others into believing that their voices didn't really matter.

Spindrift opened an Unconcerned Citizens Party office but no one showed up to work and no one contributed any money.

"Nobody cares," he said happily.

Yet, in some mysterious way, concerned citizens defected to Sprindrift's side and some of the more energetic carried "Don't Vote" signs during the next election campaign.

"WE ARE TOTALLY uncommitted to anything," he told Harry Reasoner, who was filming a special show on the latest political phenomenon.

"We've been growing in number for years," he said. "We got a big boost from Watergate and another when the drop-out crowd reached voting age."

"What is the basis of your political philosophy?" Reasoner asked.

"Don't vote the rascals in," Spindrift said.

"WELL, HOW DO WE get our public officials if we don't elect them?" Reasoner asked.

"We hire them, like everybody else gets a job, on the basis of qualifications, experience, references and so on," Spindrift said.

"But what about the right to vote?" Reasoner asked.

"It includes the right not to vote, and I foresee the day when nobody will give a hoot," Spindrift replied.

"Well, that would solve the campaign financing problem," Reasoner said.

"Yeh. What's the use of spending money if you can't buy a vote?" Spindrift said.

IN THE 1988 PRESIDENTIAL election, pollsters were unable to spot the trend because nobody answered their questions, and television commentators couldn't project a winner because the voting sample was too small.

The voter turnout was less than one per cent and the electoral college declared that nobody won.

First, The Good News; But It May Turn Out To Be Bad

WASHINGTON — Everywhere I travel in this great land, I am asked the same question about the economy: "Why doesn't the government do something?" The answer, as everyone in Washington knows, is that the government doesn't know what to do.

I was talking to my friend Baradash, a high government official, the other day.

"THE PRICE OF MEAT should go down next month," he said.

"That's good."

"No, that's bad. If meat goes down, the cattlemen are going to get sore and shoot their calves. You see, they're paying more for everything and getting less for what they sell."

"That's bad," I said.

"It could be good if we could hold the line on meat so wages in other industries would not go up. The real problem is fertilizer. There's a shortage of fertilizer because there is a shortage of oil. Of course, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates cut the price of their oil last week."

"That's good."

"Not really. At the same time they cut the price of oil, they raised taxes on the oil companies, and it may cost us more for oil now than it did before."

"That's bad."

"AND THEN WE CAN'T forget the coal strike in this country, can we?"

"Things aren't all that bad," he said. "Interest rates are going down."

"That's good." I brightened up.

"It won't solve our inflation problem, though. If money is easier to get, prices will probably go up again."

"That's bad."

"THE IMPORTANT THING is that this country has been consuming too much. We've got to get people to conserve and not spend as if there were no tomorrow."

"It would be a good thing if they did," I agreed.

"It also could be a bad thing. If Americans don't spend as if there were no tomorrow, people will lose their jobs, and then they won't be able to buy new automobiles. If we don't sell any automobiles in this country, we're going to have a real recession, and then we'll have to raise taxes to take care of all the people who are out of work."

"That's bad."

"It could be good if we taxed gasoline because that would be the best way to cut down on our oil imports. If we could cut down on oil imports, we could have a better chance for a favorable balance of trade."

"That would be good," I said.

"IT WOULD BE, but no one has any money to buy our exports, except possibly food. If we export our food, prices in the supermarkets will go soaring and we'll have a revolution at home."

"Baradash, you represent the government. Isn't there anything you people can do to stave off disaster?"

"Well, I'm wearing my WIN button, aren't I?" he said.

"That's good," I said.

"No," he replied. "That's bad. The damn thing cost me a buck, and it keeps making holes in my suits."

Aspirin Is Found Helpful Against Small Strokes

DALLAS (UPI) — Aspirin apparently reduces the number of "little strokes" in elderly patients although it has no effect on death rates, several doctors said yesterday.

The problem, called transient ischemic attacks, disappears completely without treatment in one-third of the patients, another one-third continue to have them with no change and another third progress to severe strokes, the doctors said.

Dr. William K. Hass of the New York University Medical Center said the attacks are simply a "limping brain," in which blood flow is cut off momentarily to areas of the brain.

The patient will have dizziness, numbness, clumsiness or confusion of speech or sight, Hass said at the American Heart Association Conference.

However, many of the persons who experience the problems take aspirin, which seems to relieve the recurrence, said Dr. H.J. Barnett of the Western Ontario School of Medicine in London, Ont.

Barnett said aspirin slows blood coagulation and reduces blood clot obstructions which prevent the flow to the brain and thus causes the attacks. A severe stroke is from major stoppage of blood to the brain.

He said, however, long-acting aspirin does not affect coagulation because it is released through the lower gastrointestinal tract and is altered.

"We know it seems to have some effect on the attacks, but regardless it seems to have no effect on preserving life," he said.

At another symposium at the four-day conference, a panel of doctors said that a surgical bypass of diseased heart vessels seems to prolong life.

The doctors said, though, that studies have not proven the surgery affects longevity.

If it's worth 3 weeks to pick out that gift, it's worth 3 minutes to wrap it right.

Address on one side only.

When you send someone a present, you want them to receive it looking like a present. So they'll know you not only cared enough to take the trouble to pick out a gift. You also cared enough to make sure it arrived in the condition a gift should arrive.

Follow these steps:

1. First, make sure whatever you're mailing is well-cushioned so nothing is loose inside. (Yesterday's newspaper makes a good padding.)

2. Even if your gift is in a gift box, put it inside a sturdy corrugated box. (Make sure this is well-cushioned, too. More newspaper will do that.)

3. Put a slip of paper with the full address and your return address inside the corrugated box. Seal with tape and tie with twine. (That address inside the box is worth remembering because if the outside becomes unreadable, the Post Office will still know where to deliver the package.)

4. Write or print the destination address and your return address (both with Zip Codes) on the side of the package you put the postage.

In a real hurry?

When you need to send your gift in a real hurry, then send it Priority Mail—that's Parcel Post by air. That will get it anywhere in the country in just 2 or 3 days. And if the gift is valuable, be sure to have it insured.

You'll find that when you take a few minutes to wrap it securely, your gift should get where it's going still looking the way it did when you bought it at the store.

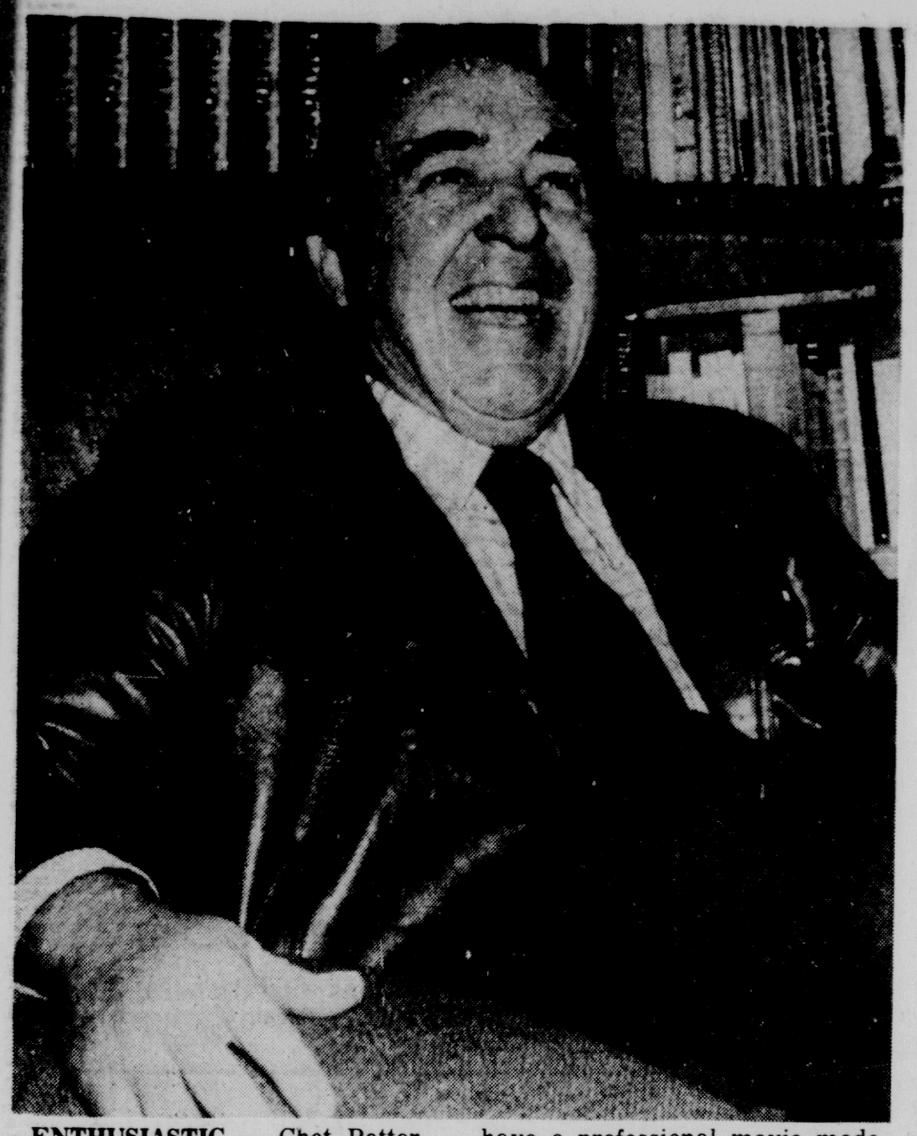
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1974 19



ENTHUSIASTIC — Chet Patterson of Greenbrae grins with enthusiasm as he describes his "gift of the year" for rich people who have run out of ideas. For $30,000, have a professional movie made about your family, is the gist of the ad now running for Patterson's brainstorm in Abercrombie and Fitch's Christmas catalogue.

Crime Had Roots In Childhoods

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Wrapping up the loose ends of a crime after a defendant has been convicted is the job of Marin's probation officers. Often, the reports they write provide the only complete pictures of what happened and why, and help the judge decide what the sentence will be. The following is drawn from probation reports on two young men and a woman who committed an armed robbery in Marin recently. To spare their families any embarrassment, their names have been changed.)

By GEORGE NEVIN

It was a crime that almost didn't happen.

But if it hadn't, something like it was bound to take place sooner or later, because the three young people who came together that summer morning were programmed that way.

They shared backgrounds similar in many ways. The fathers of all three were servicemen, moving their families here and there.

Malcolm Stuart was a bright, articulate youth, but the seeds of his future legal conflicts already were sown when he entered high school. A frequent runaway in his early years, he was arrested but once — for stealing a bicycle.

"Although the defendant was a wild and restless youth," wrote his probation officer, "the Stuart parents apparently set few limits on their son. There were some attempts at setting time restrictions, but when Malcolm did not respond, the parents did not follow through. Consequently, Malcolm pretty much did things his own way as a child."

By the time Stuart left high school to join the Air Force — following in his father's footsteps — his behavior patterns were well established. Soon, he became fast friends with another airman, Warren Bullock.

Like Stuart, Bullock was 17 and an "Air Force brat." He was born in Germany, the child of an American father and a German mother.

From the start, the household was in turmoil. Bullock's father, a heavy drinker, often beat his son. For years there were terrible arguments.

(After his son's arrest, in an interview with a probation officer, Bullock made a very difficult admission. He had been too severe with the boy, he confessed. Once he even had the youth placed in juvenile hall because he refused to get a haircut.)

Bullock responded to the confused home situation by running away.

"In the home," the probation officer observed, "material comforts were provided for the defendant but very little was available in terms of affection."

Soon after he entered the Air Force, something happened which affected Bullock deeply. Word reached him at his base in Texas that his fiancee was living with four men and having sex with all of them.

Wounded, Bullock left the base without permission and returned to California to confront the woman. When he got back to Texas, he tried to kill himself by overdosing on barbiturates and very nearly succeeded.

Bullock and Stuart were discharged from the Air Force. Both tried working, but they only lasted a few months. Both were 18.

The third robber was a woman, Kathy Whitworth. She met Bullock and Stuart in an East Bay crash pad and was Bullock's lover for a while.

She began taking drugs in high school, and in 1969, when she was 19, married an artist. They had a daughter, now 3, but Mrs. Whitworth became so strung out on amphetamines that she placed the child in a foster home.

All three of the robbers used various illegal drugs for years. Each had started injecting heroin four months or so before the robbery, though none yet had become addicted.

The evening before the robbery, they had taken heroin. They were driving around and, as it happened, stopped at Vista Point.

As it further happened, a young man and his girlfriend were there in the predawn hours, gazing at the San Francisco skyline.

At first, the three didn't have any intention of pulling a robbery. Bullock walked up to the man, asked for a cigarette and walked away.

Stuart described how the robbery idea took form: "We got to talking and decided it was an easy way to get some money. Ya gotta eat. Me and Warren both had knives. I was feeling pretty good but I wasn't wasted."

Bullock, however, said money wasn't the motive. "It was as much of a dare as anything else," he said. "I had some money. We didn't really need any money."

Whatever the motivation, the two walked up to the couple. Bullock held a knife at the young man's neck and said: "Don't move. Give me your wallet, keys and watch."

The frightened youth complied and the three drove off.

Within 30 minutes their car had been spotted on Highway 101 and the three were under arrest. Only the young man's watch was recovered; the wallet and keys had been tossed out the window of the speeding car.

Psychiatric interviews at Marin County Jail revealed Bullock as "honest and pleasant but weak and impulsive" and easily influenced by his peers.

Stuart was described as "bright and perceptive" but "unable to find a constructive outlet for his restless energies. He has few reservations about resorting to criminal activities to satisfy his wants."

Mrs. Whitworth was called "attractive and intelligent," and her probation officer said of her: "She knows had she become addicted to heroin her next recourse would have been to prostitute herself."

Under the circumstances, the case has concluded as well as it could for the three. Mrs. Whitworth and Bullock were told they wouldn't have to serve jail time if they went through a drug program in San Francisco.

Stuart, thought to have been the instigator of the robbery that almost wasn't, was sent to the California Youth Authority.

Perfect For Rich Yule-Givers: A $30,000 Flick Of The Folks

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Greenbrae man who got to musing about the problems of the wealthy ("a guy can't give his wife a $30,000 fur coat every year") has come up with the "ultimate gift" for rich Santas.

Furthermore, Chet Patterson has convinced the New York-based firm, Abercrombie and Fitch, to take his idea seriously enough to feature it in their annual Christmas catalogue.

In a full-page ad in the brochure which went out to 150,000 Abercrombie customers across the nation last week, Patterson's expensive gift is ballyhooed.

"Here's the gift of the century — never offered anywhere before," the ad says.

And then it goes on to describe how, for $30,000, a movie of "professional quality with color, music, narration, slow motion, optical effects and titles" will be made "about your family."

"Include scenes of everything your family does — your daughter's wedding, graduations, christenings, anniversaries — including the new boat, golf and tennis, your home and your summer place — you name it and we'll film it," the ad promises.

Sitting before a late afternoon fire in his Greenbrae home, Patterson, partner in a San Francisco advertising services firm, told how he conceived the idea.

He remembered reading that Henry Ford spent $150,000 on his daughter's wedding. ("For $30,000 more, he could have had a movie made," Patterson said with a chuckle.)

He mulled over in his mind expensive gifts given by the rich — like one-of-a-kind vehicles or flying a whole crew of people to Hawaii for a weekend."

Why not a movie as a gift to one's family?

Patterson, whose firm the Film Works makes films for television and commercial use, knew it would be possible to bring professional talent to such a venture and produce a slick result.

Enthused with his idea, he placed a call to Abercrombie and Fitch in New York. "Gimme the second guy in command," he told the switchboard operator. (Patterson explained it is his theory that the second man in a corporate structure usually is a good person for getting things done.)

Told that his idea seemed "really super," Patterson eventually was put in touch with an Abercrombie and Fitch man whose job is "special gifts." This means, Patterson said, that when a customer desires to purchase a Picasso, the special gifts man makes arrangements to get him one — traveling wherever necessary.

The special gifts man was "really delighted" with Patterson's proposal, and eventually a price was placed on the movie gift. The Abercrombie man mentioned to Patterson that a customer had just had him purchase $46,000 worth of gifts for his father and that big spending apparently is not completely out of style.

In fact, Abercrombie, according to Patterson, has not included the $30,000 film in the catalogue just as an advertising gimmick but actually anticipates selling at least 10 of the movies.

The firm will make very little money on the film, though, Patterson said, because a low markup was agreed upon.

As for the movies, Patterson expects they will be "like the Clarol commercial."

In other words, he explained, he feels his firm can make even inarticulate, unattractive people "look like gangbusters."

A writer will be assigned to the family that will star in the movie, eventually a "story board" will be worked up, and music and titles added. Possibly special effects will be included in the movie — Patterson explained that a "very high speed camera" can make a young child "running toward the camera a fabulous sight."

Where will people view their very own movies? Either in their living rooms with their own projectors or in their television sets with special cassettes, Patterson explained.

Unhampered by the rigidity of television's time segment requirements, Patterson is sure he can create movies that are of a "comfortable" length — all at least 20 minutes long.

But what excites him most is the wait for customers.

Who will be the first buyer — a rich Texas oil man, a rock group or someone in Olema no one ever heard of.

Clerk Given A Raise Over Bales' Protest

Rapping Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for the second time in six months for failure to follow county personnel procedures, the county personnel commission yesterday over his objections granted a $27-per-month raise to one of his file clerks.

The commission, however, unanimously dismissed a charge by clerk Alina M. Garcia against her boss that her raise had been withheld because she refused to participate in Bales's election campaign last spring.

Mrs. Garcia, one of the lowest paid employees at the county Civic Center, had been making $543 a month.

Her request that she be granted a "step" raise, which she had been denied by Bales, was approved on the grounds that she had received inadequate training for her job and an improper performance evaluation.

Mrs. Garcia testified during a 10-hour hearing yesterday that she learned the full extent of her job only after an evaluation of her work in September, two weeks before she was denied a raise.

"I don't believe the district attorney can rely on an evaluation done two weeks before the salary increase denial," Commissioner I. Wayland Bonbright said.

"He apparently believes in other ways of handling employee relations, though this is the method (regular evaluations) the county has chosen," he added.

Mrs. Garcia had charged that she was denied the raise because she refused to duplicate a piece of Bales's campaign literature on an office duplicating machine. Bales had retorted that Mrs. Garcia was a slow worker.

In answering questions yesterday by Mrs. Garcia's lawyer, Richard H. Breiner, a supervising secretary, Elaine Hall, acknowledged that two evaluation reports on Mrs. Garcia's work performance should have been prepared prior to last April.

She said, however, that she told Mrs. Garcia to wait for an evaluation because she "hadn't been properly trained" but later decided to make the September evaluation to justify not giving the clerk a raise.

Breiner called three other witnesses in his defense of Mrs. Garcia.

Heidi Brown recounted observing Mrs. Hall criticize the file clerk last August. She said Mrs. Hall had just returned from a three-hour lunch break and had alcohol on her breath.

Another witness, Violet Huard, testified that she was fired in June without cause while a probationary employee. She said she also had refused to work on Bales' campaign.

Ingrid Lee, who now works in the county library, said she held Mrs. Garcia's job until September 1973. She said she never was caught up on her work, though given two weeks training, as compared to one day for Mrs. Garcia.

Six months ago the personnel failure to follow county hiring procedures. Yesterday it warned him to keep evaluation reports current on his employees.

San Geronimo Group Opposed To Freeway

The San Geronimo Valley Association last night went on record opposing any freeways through the valley and any large increase in the number of street lights there, according to secretary Ola Pope.

She said the group decided to take a stand on the freeway question because it fears the large number of visitors to the Point Reyes National Seashore eventually may rekindle interest in a freeway to the shore. There have been proposals for such a highway for more than 10 years, but the plan has been considered a dead issue for several years.

Mrs. Pope said the association members said they would like to see a few more street lights in the villages of Forest Knolls, Lagunitas, Woodacre and San Geronimo. But they are opposed to more lights anywhere else.

In other business, the association voted to put "a large lot" which it owns up for sale for $25,000. The property is at the corner of Aztec and Guadalupe avenues in Forest Knolls.

Drug Treatment Ordered For A Disabled Veteran

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A disabled veteran from Marin County has been declared a narcotics addict and sent to the California Rehabilitation Center instead of to prison, for armed robbery.

Larry Thomas Adkins, 22, of Los Ranchitos, appeared Friday before Judge Morton R. Colvin for review of psychiatrists' reports following a 90-day evaluation period at the California Medical Facility in Vacaville. The doctors said Adkins was an addict; Judge Colvin suspended the criminal proceedings indefinitely and ordered Adkins treated at the facility in Corona.

Adkins admitted robbing a takeout food restaurant in San Francisco in April, fleeing with $70.

He also faces sentencing by Marin Superior Court Judge Charles Reed Best on two holdups in San Rafael. He told officers he committed the robberies after becoming distraught because his government disability check failed to arrive.

Organism Seen Causing Illness

A microscopic organism is responsible for at least some of the outbreak of gastrointestinal problems that have sickened Sausalito area residents, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

She said a protozoan parasite called giardia had been identified in specimens from some of the diarrhea victims. Tests earlier showed the illness didn't come from the water supply.

Dr. Albrecht said she'll send questionnaires to victims this week, seeking clues to the source of the parasites. She said there appear to have been few or no new cases of the illness, which weakened dozens of Sausalito area residents in the last couple of months.

Funds Approved To Build Benches

A "miniamphitheater" consisting of five eight-foot benches will be built near the Marinwood tennis courts at Miller Creek and Idylberry Roads, the Marinwood Community Services District Board said last night.

The board allocated $220 for the benches as it announced resurfacing of the courts is now completed and the facilities are open for use.

Post Office Talks Set

The Larkspur Post Office situation will be discussed tomorrow when the Larkspur City Council meets at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

Postal employees, protesting their proposed transfer to the Corte Madera Post Office, will present petitions to the council and will try to persuade it to oppose the move.

Also on the agenda is a showing of a documentary video tape of the planned San Quentin development, done by Marin Community Video.

Recreation Plans To Be Discussed

A night community recreation program will be considered by the Shoreline Unified School District board at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Tomales High School.

The board also will consider adoption of an official district seal and the hiring of basketball and baseball coaches.

252nd Heart Transplanted

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Lennarth T. Bearnarth, a 40-year-old men's clothing retailer from Potomac, Md., was in satisfactory condition today after becoming the 252nd heart transplant recipient.

Bearnarth, married and the father of three, underwent the delicate, 4.5-hour operation yesterday morning at the Medical College of Virginia.

Dr. Richard Lower, the head of the hospital's transplant division, directed the team of surgeons throughout the operation, the ninth such transplant performed at the Richmond hospital.

Adhering to hospital policy, spokesman Bill Van Pelt refused to release information about the heart donor, but a Richmond newspaper quoted sources as saying it was a 19-year-old female.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, November 19th, the 323rd day of 1974 with 42 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

American explorer George Rogers Clark was born November 19th, 1752.

Also on this day in history:

In 1874, William Marcy Teed, leader of New York's Tammany Hall, was sentenced to 12 years in prison for defrauding the city of 12-million dollars.

Also in 1874, the National Women's Christian Temperance Union was organized in Cleveland, Ohio.

In 1919, the U.S. Senate rejected the Treaty of Versailles drawn up by the Paris peace conference at the end of World War One.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson told the U.S. Senate: "There must be not a balance of power but a community of power . . . not organized rivalries, but an organized common peace."

WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

There Is A Time To Fish — And A Time To Play Trump

Winning a trick with the ace of trumps shouldn't be very hard, but winning it at the right time may call for thought. There is a time to fish and a time to dry nets, but the difference is clearer to the fisherman than to the poor fish.

DEUCE OF HEARTS

West opens the deuce of hearts, dummy's king is put up and East wins with the ace. East should read South for the two missing aces and the king of trumps. Since this leaves nothing for West, East must try to defeat the contract single-handed.

There is no problem about getting two heart tricks and the ace of trumps. East must aim for a third heart trick, and he cannot get this without taking trumps out of the dummy.

CANNOT LEAD ACE

East cannot afford to lead out the ace of trumps and then a low trump. South would be delighted to draw a third round of trumps and then run the diamonds.

If declarer leads another trump or a heart, East takes the ace of trumps and three heart tricks. If South tries to run the diamonds before drawing trumps, West can ruff the third diamond; and then the defenders will still get two hearts and the ace of trumps.

East must keep control of the hand with his ace of trumps. The way to draw trumps and keep control is to lead a low trump first.

As dealer you hold:
♠ - A 3

♦ - 9 4 3
♣ - Q 10 9 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

The hand is worth an opening bid, with 13 points in high cards and two biddable suits. The opening club bid gives you an easy rebid if partner bids a new suit. An opening heart bid would be uncomfortable if partner responded in diamonds.

Session Canceled

Tomorrow night's meeting of the Corte Madera Board of Adjustments has been canceled due to lack of a quorum, Secretary Elizabeth Long has announced.

COLD WEATHER CLOUDS

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources.

FORECASTS

San Francisco Bay Area: Mostly fair with variable high clouds through tonight; partly cloudy tomorrow; high tomorrow in the upper 50s and 60s; low tonight in 40s to low 50s; west to northwest wind 10 to 20 m.p.h. tomorrow afternoon.

Recent Example Eludes Chief

In reference to a running test flunked by all seven women applicants for the San Rafael Police Department, Chief Lawrence R. Kelly said he couldn't think of a recent example where an officer's running ability had been important.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hair Transplants Now Nearly 100 Per Cent Sure To Succeed

Each hair follicle is genetically predisposed, and its reaction to androgens (hormones) determines whether hair will or will not grow on your head. Since the response to androgens is programmed through heredity, little can be done about the hair patterns that develop on the head, chin, arms, legs, chest, armpits and elsewhere.

Dr. Norman Orentreich, New York dermatologist who devised the hair transplant technique, believes that once we are able to control the chemical effects of androgens on hair follicles, all other hair restoration methods will be obsolete.

HAIR TRANSPLANTATION done by a trained surgeon carries an almost 100 per cent success rate. Dr. Orentreich estimates that more than a million persons have had their transplants. Poor results have been reported when the practitioner lacks skill or does not follow directions to the letter.

Follicles for transplant are obtained from areas of the scalp that rarely, if ever, become bald, such as the sides and back of the head. A special circular cutter is used to make several openings in the bald area. Similar size plugs, or tufts of hair, and their follicles are then removed and inserted in these openings.

From 10 to 50 or more plugs are grafted at one sitting. Each plug contains eight to 15 hairs, depending on the texture of the hair. These are so small, that 20 to 25 of them could fit into a square inch.

ONE DERMATOLOGIST has developed a power-driven cutter or plugger, which makes the procedure less tedious for the operator and the patient.

There is some disagreement on whether front area baldness should be covered first to create a new hairline before filling in the back part. Some technicians start in the back and proceed forward.

PERSISTENT FATIGUE

S.N. writes: My doctor told me a year ago that I had narcolepsy. He's been treating me with different medicines, but I'm still tired. Do you think I should get another opinion?

REPLY

Yes I do, and preferably from a nerve specialist. Narcolepsy (an uncontrollable desire to sleep at the drop of a hat) usually responds to a stimulant, such as an amphetamine. Since you have been taking medication for a year and are still tired, there may be another cause of your fatigue, such as sluggish thyroid gland.

WHITE PATCHES

Mrs. J. J. writes: My neighbor's 3-year-old daughter has leprosy on her arms. Will these white spots go away in time?

REPLY

Has the diagnosis been confirmed? The reason I ask is that leprosy is not common in children and white spots are not the usual manifestation of this condition.

HIGH-FAT DIET

Mrs. C.V.J. writes: A friend of mine has been on a high-fat diet (self-imposed) for quite a long time. Could she develop diabetes as a result?

REPLY

No. But a high-fat diet can increase the blood cholesterol, encourage hardening of the arteries and could lead to ketosis, an acid condition. (Incidentally, obesity often precedes diabetes in a person predisposed to the disease, but obesity is not the cause).

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Driver Rams Into Truck; Badly Hurt

Lee A. Bennett, of 517 Lanyard Court, underwent surgery at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma, where he was taken for treatment of head wounds and internal injuries sustained in the 2:30 a.m. crash.

Albert M. Ursem, 61, of San Bruno, driver of the double-trailer truck into which Bennett's sedan crashed, told the California Highway Patrol Bennett's car closed in on the truck, as if Bennett did not see it, and smashed directly into its rear.

The car was a total loss and the truck rig was moderately damaged, the patrol said.

Watergate Still A Ford Problem

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — After three months in office, President Ford's standing with Californians is still strongly influenced by events connected with Watergate, the California Poll reported today.

The poll measured public opinion toward President Ford between Oct. 28-30 and found that 29 per cent of the California public rated the job he was doing as "good," 17 per cent it was "poor," and 45 per cent felt it was a "fair job."

This is a slight decline from a month earlier, when 33 per cent thought he did a good job and 15 per cent a poor one.

A NEW LOOK FOR NEW YORK CITY

Strollers along Fifth Avenue in New York City got this preview recently of a modern double-decker bus similar to a type that will be used in that city's streets next summer. The new model made a stopover en route from Stuttgart, Germany, to Los Angeles. The 23-ton bus is one of 12 German and English buses being brought to the U.S. as part of a demonstration and evaluation of high-capacity buses under the sponsorship of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation. New York has purchased eight buses. They can seat 86 passengers instead of the present 47.

Taped History For Scholars' Eyes

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Oral history collections — taped talks with famous figures — aren't new at universities. Alas, they only serve scholars' ears, not eyes. But work has begun to let the eyes have it, too.

Former diplomat Angier Biddle Duke says he's trying to create a videotape file of scholarly interviews with key Americans who, though now out of government service, helped shape modern American history.

The collection, he adds, is for the archives of Duke University and intended "to provide a record for scholars and historians" in which they can observe as well as listen to the subject.

Duke, 58, the chief White House protocol officer in the Kennedy Administration, said he and Jay Rutherford, a former state department colleague, began work on the project about a year ago.

He said the Duke file already contains videotape interviews he's had with former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, a member of the Warren Commission; Earl T. Smith, the last U.S. ambassador to Cuba before Fidel Castro's rise to power, and the late Stanton Griffis, former U.S. ambassador to Argentina, Spain, Egypt and Poland.

Duke says the tapes aren't made with the idea of offering them to commercial or public TV: "We'd never do that. That would be absolutely ruled out."

The interviews are of retired U.S. government figures, he said, because still-active ones are naturally guarded about what they'd say.

The basic concept, he said, is to question the subjects in an atmosphere in which they need not fear today's recollections are tomorrow's personally and professionally embarrassing headlines.

This way, he added, they could speak freely on all subjects, including all the chemistry that goes into public life and the decision-making processes."

And the subjects have final say on exactly when, how and to whom their interviews are to be opened for scrutiny, Duke said.

Up to now, he said, Rutherford, who is retired and living in Palm Beach, Fla., has financed the taping of the Duke interviews.

"But of course, he can't do it indefinitely, and we're seeking help from the foundations supporting the university," he said, estimating the average cost of each taping at $5,000. He said he established the collection at Duke because that's where he's put his government papers and memorabilia. Members of his family also serve as trustees there, he added.

He said he understands the university's videotape history library is the first of its kind in the nation.

Earthquake Prediction Is Doubted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A noted geophysicist says there is considerable scientific reason to doubt the prediction by two astronomers that a rare lineup of the planets will trigger a major earthquake along California's San Andreas fault in 1982.

Dr. William M. Kauala, professor of geophysics at the University of California at Los Angeles, said in a review published in this week's issue of Science Magazine that the analysis of John R. Gribbin and Stepehen H. Plagemann has several defects.

Gribbin and Plagemann made their prediction in a book, "The Jupiter Effect," and said the quake is likely to occur in the Los Angeles area. They said it could be "one of the greatest disasters in modern times."

"It is quite likely that there will be a seriously damaging earthquake in California within the next 50 years," Kauala said. "The authors are correct in saying that better preparation for such an event is needed.

"However, to predict a specific year in which the quake will occur does a disservice, like crying wolf. From present evidence the quake is no more likely to occur in 1982 than in 1975 or 2001.

"All we can confidently predict now is that in 1975 Gribbin and Plagemann will sell a lot of copies of their book as a consequence of the new spectacular "earthquake" which universal pictures is readying for the Christmas trade."

Gribbin and Plagemann said a chain of natural phenomena would probably release forces that are building up along the San Andreas fault. They said in 1982 the nine planets will line up on the same side of the sun for the first time in 179 years and this should coincide with a peak of sunspot activity on the sun.

Contractor Suit Valid, Court Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court ruled yesterday that a building contractor can sue a public utility for damages if its cost projections for an apartment heating system contain allegedly fraudulent misrepresentations.

The unanimous opinion came in a case brought in Los Angeles by Empire West, a building organization that contended Southern California Gas Co. presented an estimate of the cost of installing and operating a gas heating and cooling system in an apartment complex without accurate backup data.

The builder said it found out later that the system was more costly to install than an electric system and would cost about $8,000 more per year to operate than predicted.

In reversing and sending the case back to the lower court, the Supreme Court held that since the complaint alleged a misrepresentation of projected costs rather than published tariff rates, the policy recovery of preferential rates was not applicable.

BART Fire Under Probe

CONCORD (AP) — Bay Area Rapid Transit officials are investigating a fire which damaged two of the system's sleek silver and blue cars and forced passengers to abandon the train.

The fire broke out yesterday morning on the last two cars of a nine-car Concord line train, causing delays of about 30 minutes on that line. BART spokesman Mike Healy said the nine persons aboard the train were riding up front and none was hurt.

"The inside of one car was scorched quite a bit and blackened by smoke as well," Healy said. "The other car just had a lot of smoke. Both cars were totally vacant."

BART officials said the probable cause of the fire was a rear disc brake which either locked or overheated.

Any Flooding Linked To Road Work

A county official's claims that the area of the Palm Village Trailer Village near the Atherton Avenue-Highway 101 interchange in Novato long has been subject to flooding, was disputed yesterday by a spokesman for the trailer park.

Henry Lautrup, the spokesman, argued that the park never was flooded until Jan. 16, 1963, after the state began construction of the interchange and changed drainge in the area. Charles R. Murphy — a county flood control engineer — told the Independent-Journal last week that the interchange drainage was designed to prevent the flood problem from becoming any worse, but that the area had had drainage problems for years.

Lautrup said San Rafael attorney John G. Buresch is preparing a lawsuit against the state over the flood threat. Buresch was not available for comment.

Timber Crisis Could Be Next For Nation

ATLANTA, Ga. — U.S. forest production must be doubled within 25 years if America is to avoid a "timber crisis."

Industry officials, worried by the strain being put on supplies of wood in some regions, are calling for stepped-up action by government, private landowners, and industry itself.

The "energy crisis" and the public roasting given the oil industry because of it have helped to alert forest officials to the need for action. They are aware that a "timber crisis," with shortages of everything from newsprint to paper towels, could land the industry on the same public hot seat.

"I don't relish the thought of standing before the public at some future date to explain a wood fiber shortage," says Jack E. Meadows, senior vice president of Georgia-Pacific Corp.

Already, Meadows said, harvests of timber exceed the growth rates in the South's principal "wood basket" areas — Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, east Texas.

Nationwide, according to federal figures, softwood timber is being chopped down on industry land 60 per cent faster than it is growing — that is 16.3 billion board feet (bbf) cut in 1973 while growth is 10 bbf. In national forests, softwood is being harvested 45 per cent faster than the growth rate (12.7 bbf removed while only 8.5 bbf is grown).

Only in privately held tracts does the growth of softwood (17.7 bbf a year) exceed the harvest (4.4 bbf).

The hardwood story is more optimistic — total U.S. harvest, 15.1 billion board feet; total growth, 19.6. But hardwood plays a much smaller role in the total forest picture.

Softwoods are used primarily in supplying fiber for the paper and cardboard industry, as well as wood for construction. Hardwoods are used mainly in veneers, flooring, cabinetry, and some specialty papermaking.

Unlike the energy crisis, however, there is still plenty of time to head off serious wood shortages — if strong action is taken soon, say observers.

The nation's four million small landowners control some 300 million acres — and without their help, future timber shortages are virtually a certainty, industry experts say.

Several steps are seen as essential to boosting nationwide output. Among those suggested by industry or government:

"Super trees." Genetically improved trees now being planted widely, could eventually cut growing time to pulpwood-size from 36 years to 10 or 15.

Improved harvesting methods. One prototype harvester grabs each tree with huge steel bands and pulls it from the soil "like a carrot." Stumps and roots can be used, and replanting on the cleared plot is facilitated.

Tax incentives. Local and state governments are being urged to base taxes on the rate of tree growth rather than a flat per-acre charge.

Industry cooperation. Corporations are being urged to help small landowners with technical and other assistance.

Freight rates. Because of government rules, a short haul can cost more than a long haul, thereby making some valuable timber stands uneconomic to harvest.

Public understanding. Environmental pressures and public demands for increased "wilderness" areas without logging could cut severely into available supplies toward the end of the century, industry leaders say.

The "timber crisis" is not here yet. And public awareness could assure that steady supplies of wood and paper will continue for many generations.

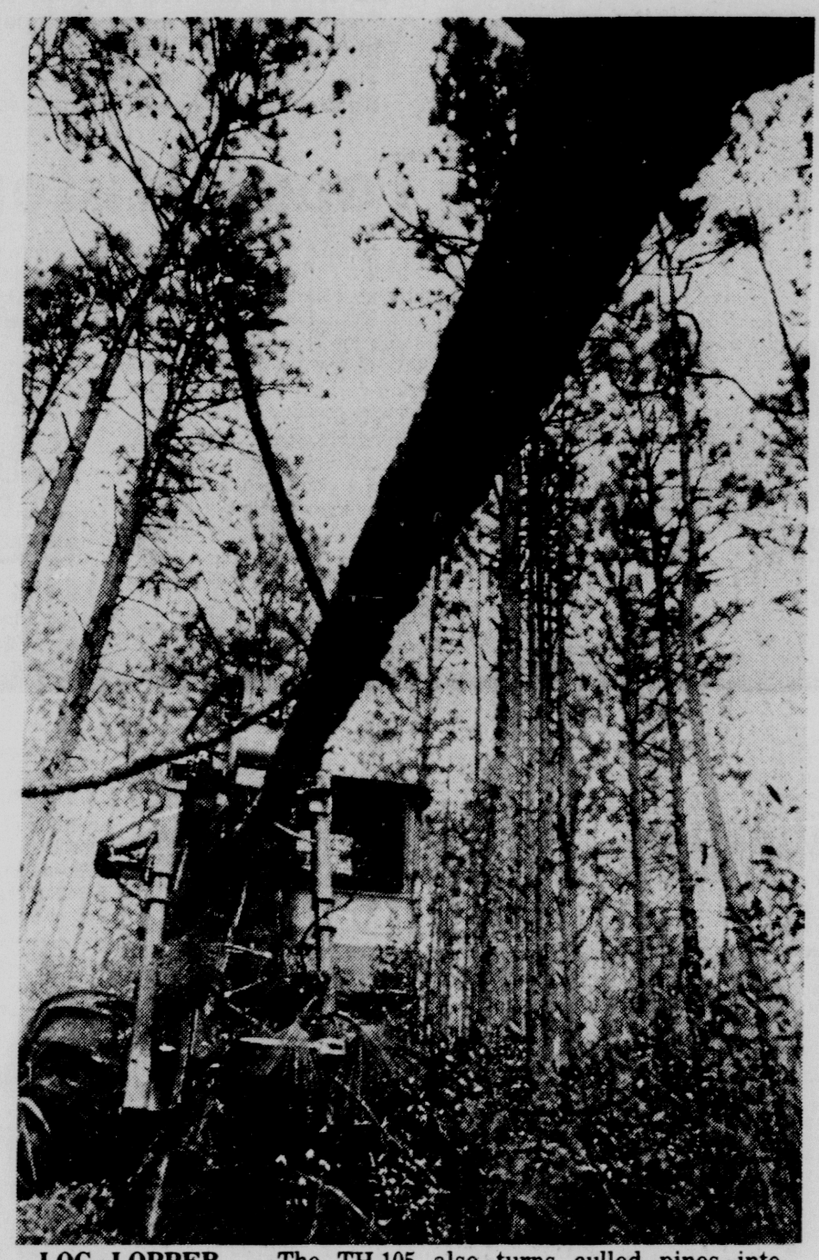
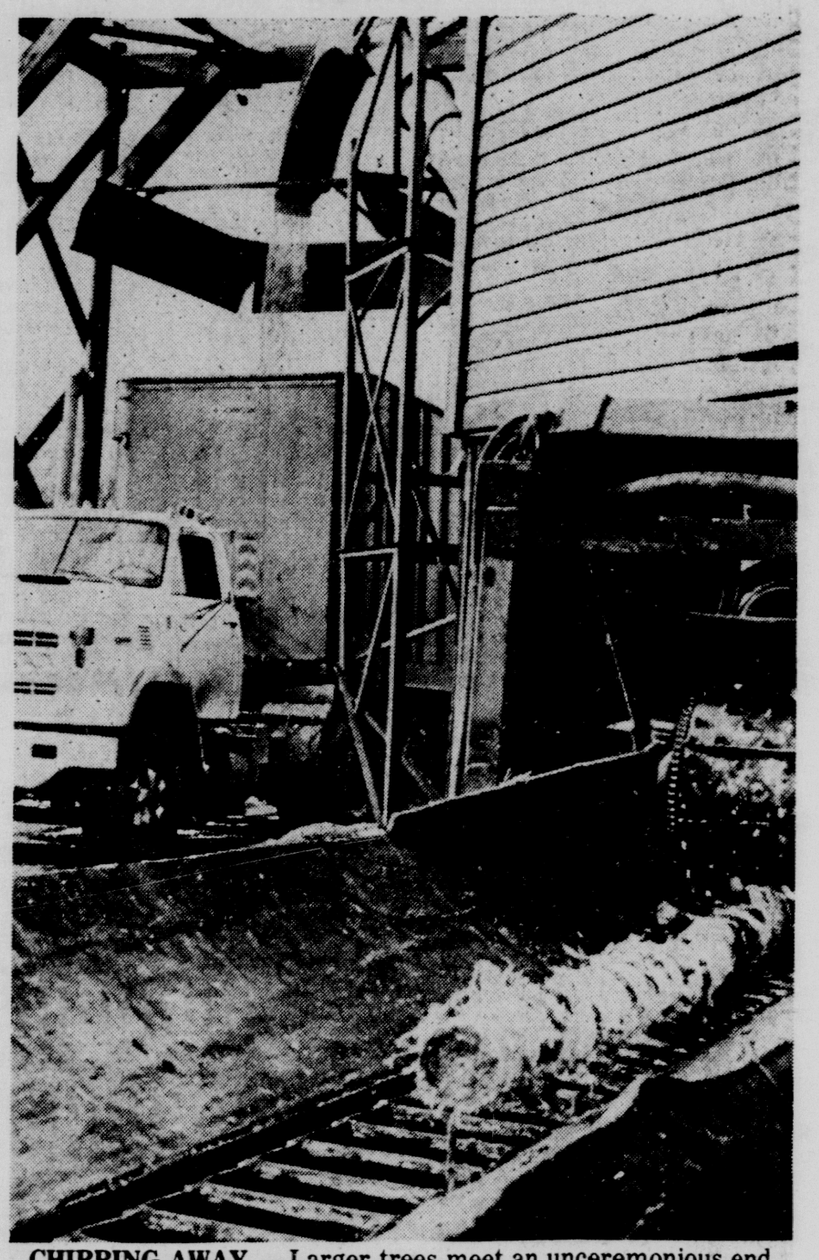
TIMBER THINNER — This big machine, a TH-105 thinner-harvester, removes trees up to 10 inches in diameter and 90 feet in length.



LOG LOPPER — The TH-105 also turns culled pines into shorter logs, cutting them into lengths that can be more easily handled by timber crews.



CHIPPING AWAY — Larger trees meet an unceremonious end at the chipping machine and the pulp is then loaded into a truck for transport to the paper mill.

INTO PAPER — The pulp starts to become paper as high-speed rollers and screens shape it into sheets.

When Big Game Is A Big Game

It's always a plus when the Big Game is really a big game. And this time, it is big in more than just the name.

Too many times in recent years, the Stanford-Cal game has been big in tradition only. By then, USC or UCLA would have already sewn up the Pacific-8 championship or would be playing for the title the same day down south.

There were recent exceptions to the rule. Stanford had much at stake in the back to back years of 1970 and '71 when it won the Pac-8 title and went on to the Rose Bowl, a trip it hadn't taken since 1951, the days when the team was still called the Indians.

CAL HAS BEEN out of the title picture so long, it was becoming a habit. The Bears haven't won a football conference title since 1958. That year they earned a place in the Rose Bowl and had the misfortune of running into Iowa in one of that school's better years. If you need a reminder, Iowa won, 38-12.

The picture is different this time, although neither Stanford or Cal have a chance to get into the Rose Bowl without buying their own tickets. But they both have chances at tieing for co-championships.

IF STANFORD wins and UCLA beats USC there would be a three-way tie for the championship between those three teams, each with 5-1-1 records. Because of overall season records, either USC or UCLA would reach the Rose Bowl, depending on how the Trojans of Southern California did against Notre Dame the following week. But the Cardinals would still be considered Pac-8 co-champs.

If California wins Saturday and UCLA upsets USC, there would be a three-way tie for the Pac-8 title between those three teams. The Bruins would go to the Rose Bowl because they would hold victories over both Cal and USC.

CAL IS ineligible for Rose Bowl participation because of NCAA probation or the Bears would still have a chance at making it because of a possible better overall record than USC and UCLA in the event of a three-way tie for the championship.

Although the Bears aren't eligible for the Rose Bowl, their Pac-8 games count so they can still become co-champs, ending their 16-year title drought.

Because of their chances at pieces of the Pac-8 championship cake, Cal and Stanford will have much more at stake than tradition in this game. Cal will probably rate as a slight favorite when the odds are sent out of Nevada tomorrow, but in this game, odds do not mean that much.

IN 1970 Stanford was headed for the Rose Bowl and still lost to underdog Cal, 22-14. Stanford went on to beat Ohio State in the Rose Bowl, 27-17. Upsets are numerous in this game, because it's the Big Game and the adrenalin flows.

It brings out the Old Blues and the Old Reds. But this time it's different. It's really a Big Game.

Hard To Discourage This Tennis Player

Blindness Does Not Stop Chris Ehrler

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

"This sure can be a frustrating game, can't it?" The question came from Chris Ehrler while she waited for the ball on her side of the net on the tennis courts at College of Marin.

Then the ball came and this time she returned it over the net. "That's better," she murmered as she backed into position for the next one.

On this particular day, she was returning about half the shots which came her way, missing others. Yet, it could be frustrating, but she kept at it, doggedly.

Chris has been blind since she was 5, a result of a childhood accident when the lid of a toy chest fell and hit her in the temple. The blow caused deterioration of the optic nerve. The handicap hasn't stopped the vivacious Chris from becoming involved in recreation.

"I've even tried tackle football," she laughed. In addition she has water skied, and has ice skated and roller skated. She also wants to takeup skiing this year.

Chris got the idea for tennis when she was at Oceana High School in Pacifica two years ago. She was then Christell (Chris) Christopher. "A friend dared me to try it," she said. To be able to hear where the ball was, she cut open tennis balls and inserted small bells. She could hear the ball when it struck the court, but the bounce was not true. Because of this, she abandoned that method.

Now a student at College of Marin, she still uses her ears to locate the ball after it bounces on the court in front of her, but it's the sound of the ball only, no bells.

Her playing partner is Joelle Overlock, 20, a coed at College of Marin. The two of them get out about once a week to hit balls back and forth. Joelle's voice keeps Chris pointed in the right direction and she tells her when she is going to hit one to her. Then Chris concentrates and when the ball hits to either side of her, she flicks out the racket and surprisingly returns the shot.

"They're too high, Chris," answered Joelle.

"Then why didn't you tell me?" she demanded.

"Okay, Chris; they're too high."

Then they started playing some more. All the while, Chris' yellow Labrador guide dog, Carol, was lying at the far end of the court where it was tied.

Chris attended Guides for the Blind school in San Rafael last summer and that's where she met Richard (Rick), Ehrler, a man who lost his sight in 1969 in Vietnam while serving with the 9th Division, Airborne Long Range Patrol. After a short courtship, they were wed last September.

Mrs. Ehrler is a very spunky individual. She said too many persons told her it couldn't be done when she set out to learn tennis. "I went out to prove those people wrong," she said.

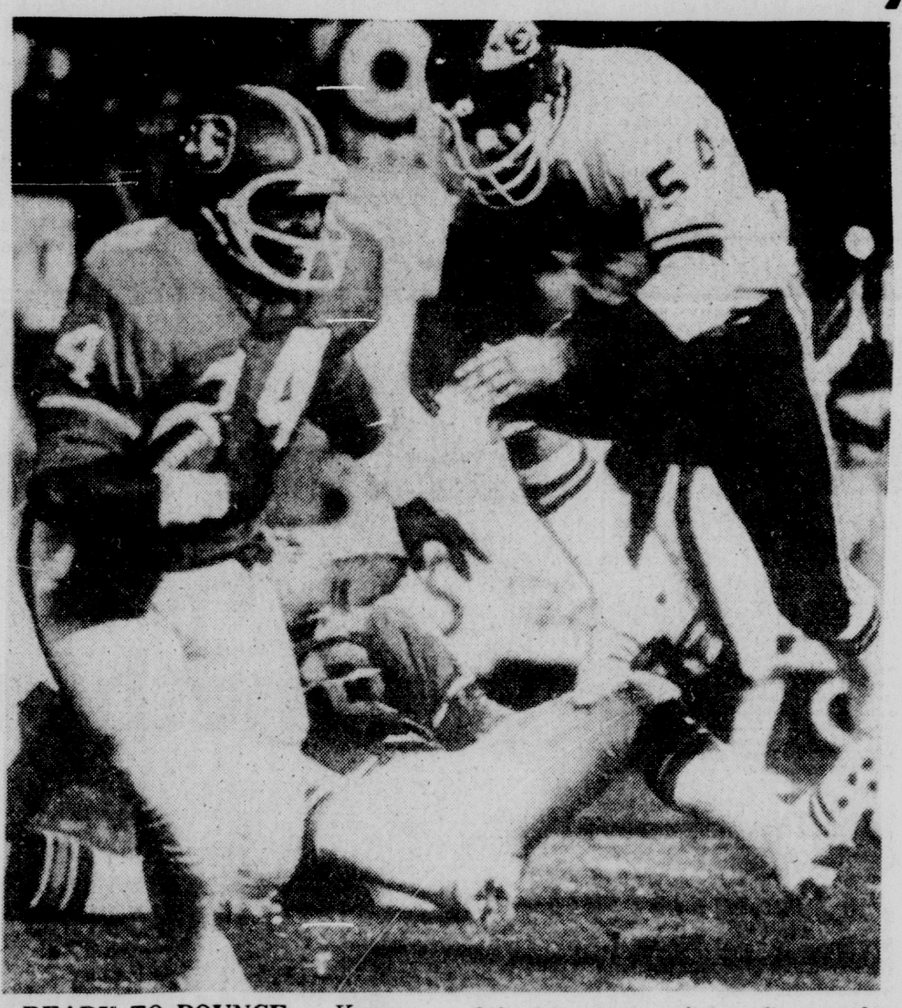
It Was Like Old Days In AFL To Stram



READY TO POUNCE — Kansas City linebacker Clyde Werner hurdled a fallen Broncos' linemen before pouncing on running back Otis Armstrong after a five-yard gain during the first quarter at Denver last night.

Lots Of Scoring, Excitement

DENVER (UPI) — Kansas City Coach Hank Stram thought he was reliving the past last night.

"The way things happened in that game, you would have thought it was the days of the old American Football League," said Stram, who has coached the Chiefs since the AFL began play in 1960 and the team was known as the Dallas Texans.

Things happened the way Stram wanted them to as his team knocked off Denver 42-34, scoring 16 points in the first five minutes of the second half to turn a 21-17 Denver halftime lead into a 33-21 Chiefs lead.

"It was really wild, just like the old days," Stram said, remembering the days when his team beat the Broncos by such scores as 52-21, 49-39 and 38-24.

Denver built a 21-17 halftime lead as rookie Jon Keyworth, starting his first game, bulled his way over from a yard out for touchdowns twice in the first half and Charley Johnson, who came within two yards of Denver's single game record by hitting 28-of-42 passes for 445 yards, threw 11 yards to Billy Van Heusen for a touchdown.

Kansas City scored in the first quarter on a three-yard Len Dawson to Ed Podolak pass, a two-yard run by Podolak in the second period and a 41-yard Jan Stenerud field goal.

Then came the change of events.

Denver's Oliver Ross fumbled the second half kickoff on his own 12 and the Chiefs' Cleo Miller recovered. Two plays later, Woody Green fumbled and Denver's Bill Laskey recovered at the one.

On Denver's first play, Johnson threw long and incomplete. On the next play, eight-year veteran Willie Lanier caught Denver's Otis Armstrong in the end zone for a safety.

Kansas City took the ensuing free kick and zipped 49 yards, with Dawson throwing 35 yards to Otis Taylor for a touchdown. After the Chiefs held Denver on three downs, Podolak returned a Van Heusen punt 54 yards to the Denver 17. On the first play from scrimmage, Green scored.

The Chiefs added a 35-yard field goal late in the third quarter and another touchdown in the final period on a one-yard Wendell Hayes run.

Sandwiched around Hayes' run were Denver scores on Keyworth's third one-yard plunge with two seconds gone in the fourth quarter and a four-yard pass from Johnson to Otto Stowe with 7:50 to play.

WHILE WATCHING TV

Western Title For Oaklanders

When Denver fell 42-34 in a wild one with Kansas City last night, it put the Raiders (9-1) out of reach of the second place Broncos (4-5-1), who come to Oakland Sunday.

The Raiders had made it nine wins, in a row Sunday with an unimpressive 17-10 win over San Diego.

Once again, the difference was a 60-yard bomb from Ken Stabler to Cliff Branch, the same combination that broke open three other victories in the Raiders nine-game win streak.

Oakland ended up the Charger game with six penalties for 66 yards while San Diego had one penalty for 11 yards.

"Every time we got going, something would stop us," said Raider Coach John Madden. "Penalties or mistakes or something."

Now the Raiders have four games before the playoffs in which to eliminate those mistakes.

Washington St. Back Offensive Player Of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ron Cheatham's second best running performance in Washington State history has earned him this week's Pacific-8 Offensive Player of the Week award.

Cheatham rushed for 194 yards and scored two touchdowns against California Saturday as the Cougars missed a major upset with a fumble in the final seconds to lose 37-33.

Others named for outstanding performances in Pac-8 action were Steve Bartkowski, California quarterback; Anthony Davis, USC running back; Russel Charles, UCLA running back; Scott Laidlaw, Stanford running back and Alvin White, Oregon State quarterback.

Undefeated Novato Won't Be Taking Bay Bowl Foe Lightly

The Novato Hornets are undefeated this year, but they'll be anything but complacent Friday night when they meet Hogan of Vallejo in the third annual Top of the Bay Bowl.

In their final game of the Marin County Athletic League football season two weeks ago, the Hornets got roughed up in the second half and had to settle for an 18-18 tie with Terra Linda. But like the guy in the after-shave commercial who gets slapped in the face, Novato might say, "Thanks, I needed that."

"It wasn't a great way to end the season," says coach Al Scott, "but it did shake the kids up. They know now they're not God's gift to football."

The Hornets, 5-0-1 in the MCAL and 7-0-2 overall, will be slight favorites as they try to atone for a 7-6 loss to Petaluma in last year's bowl. Friday's game will begin at 8 o'clock.

Hogan won the North Bay League with a 6-1 record, and under first-year coach Mike Koontz the Spartans were 7-1-2 overall. They did it with the strongest defense in the league and three of the best running backs, Bill Nunes, Joe Smith and Steve Azevedo.

Nunes, at 205 pounds, is also middle linebacker, and the acknowledged leader of the team. Smith led the league in scoring, and Azevedo gained 224 yards in his last two games.

Novato has proven capable of stopping the run, however. Anchored by middle linebacker Rich Holshevnikoff, the defense was second in the MCAL, and in the supreme test of the season the Hornets held San Marin's Wayne Roche and Bob Bennett to just 59 and 58 yards.

The question will be whether Hogan can stop the passing of Mike Moroski. Nobody in the MCAL could do it. Even against Terra Linda, he threw for more than 200 yards and two touchdowns.

"He's probably one of the best in the Bay Area, and he's certainly the best we'll have faced all year," says Koontz.

Both teams were reported healthy at the beginning of this week. Novato defensive end Tom DuBose, who suffered a dislocated shoulder against Terra Linda, was working in sweats and should be ready to go.

Cal Bears On Top Of Pac-8 Offensive Stats

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Bears, after a pair of wild wins over Washington foes, have moved to the top of the Pacific Eight offensive statistics.

The Bears have averaged 385.0 yards per game moving into their final contest with Stanford. Cal is also the top passing team with a 228.1 yard per game average.

USC has the top ground attack with a 297.1 yards per game average and is scoring 28.4 points per contest.

The Trojans also lead in total defense (236.8), rushing defense (131.9) and scoring defense (10.2 points per contest).

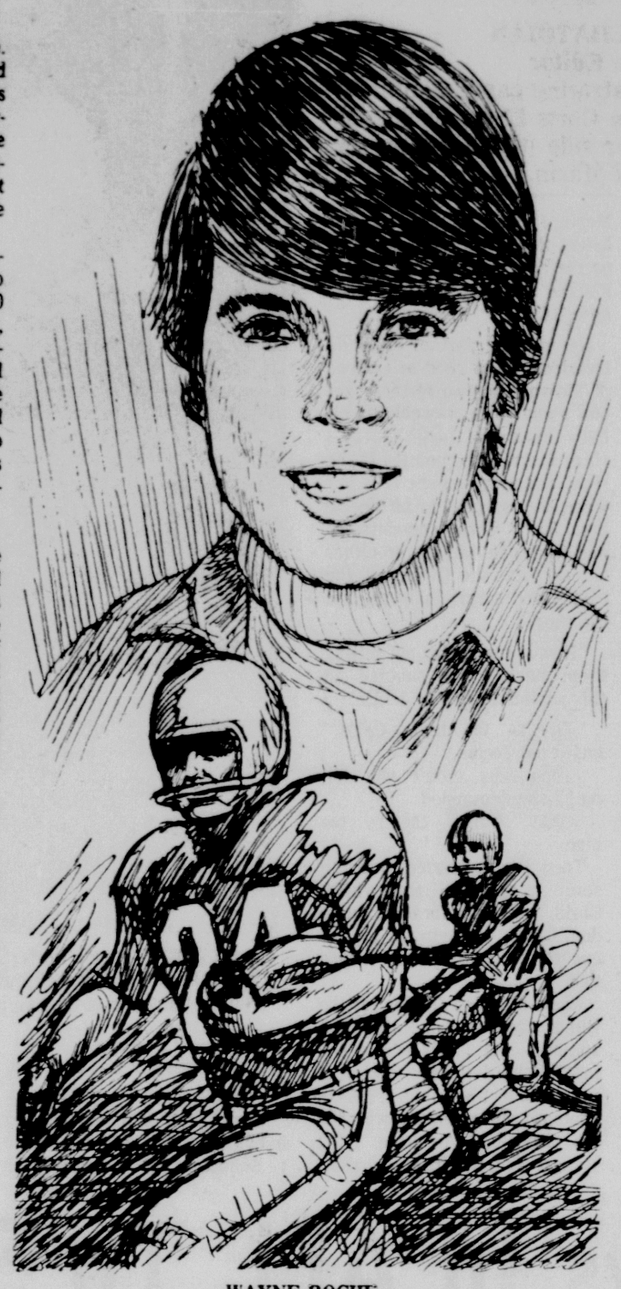
San Marin's Roche Wins I-J Prep Of Week Honors

By DAVID EINSTEIN

It was just a matter of time. Wayne Roche of San Marin had to be the Independent-Journal's Prep of the Week. Last Saturday, in his final game, Wayne earned the award as he exploded to win his second straight Marin County Athletic League rushing title going away.

With 162 yards and a touchdown, the senior tailback also led the Mustangs to a 10-0 victory over Terra Linda, which gave them sole possession of second place in the final standings. In voting for the Prep of the Week, Roche edged Drake's Terry Fahey, who threw three touchdown passes in a 33-21 victory over Tamalpais.



WAYNE ROCHE
It was all there — the confidence and bursting speed.
(Sketch by Bob Bechtel)

495 YARDS

Against Terr Linda, Roche regained the form that had racked up more than 500 yards and eight touchdowns in three pre-season wins. He ripped off huge chunks of yardage on end sweeps — 35, 24, 64 yards, and at the final gun he had 495 yards for the league season and the rushing title by 129 yards over teammate Bob Bennett.

For most of the MCAL season, Roche seemed to be running in what for him was second gear. He was still leading the league in rushing going into the Terra Linda game, but the league had yet to see the kind of devastating performance he is capable of.

"I wasn't confident in carrying the ball," Roche said of the first league games this year. "A lot of teams were keying on our rush. We're mainly a rushing team, and it makes it pretty difficult to run when they're keying on you."

'GOOD DEFENSE'

Once he gets outside, Roche runs the way he wants to, and defensive players turn leadfooted and awkward. But he had trouble rounding the corners against MCAL teams. "This is due to the good defenses in our league," he says. "The league is pretty stable, all the teams are about equal."

First year coach John Treu solved the problem with a subtle change in the offense prior to the Terra Linda game. "We'd been pitching out on sweeps all year, and we handed it off instead, making it look like an inside running play," says Treu. "That held the linebackers in, and made it easier for Wayne to get outside."

It was all there Saturday — the confidence, the bursting speed — Roche resembled one of the streaking horses on his helmet.

EXCITING MOMENT

"It was my most exciting moment," says Roche. "Beating Terra Linda was something we'd never done before. Everyone was really high for this one."

Even though he gained more yards in 1973, rushing for 535, Roche was happier about this season. Why else? "Because we had a better record. We came out winners."

"We counted heavily on his running game," says Treu, "And his presence even when he didn't have great games made it possible for us to do some other things."

Mainly, it took some pressure off Bennett and Dave Azevedo, San Marin's other fine runner. They combined with Roche to give the Mustangs a nearly 200 yards-per-game rushing average, tops in the league.

Wayne is 17, an only child, and he looks forward to going to college on an athletic scholarship. "Cal and Washington look pretty good, but I'm keeping an open mind," he says.

Slugger Colbert To Tigers

Combined AP & UPI

SAN DIEGO — Nate Colbert, who had 163 home runs in six seasons with the San Diego Padres, is now a Detroit Tiger.

Once regarded as one of the premier sluggers in the National League, the 6-foot-2, 210-pound veteran was shipped to the Tigers by the Padres last night in a complicated three-team, eight-player deal.

In exchange, the Padres were given shortstop Ed Brinkman, pitcher Bob Strampe and outfielder Dick Sharon. They then dealt Brinkman and a minor league player to be named later to the St. Louis Cardinals for southpaw reliever Rich Folkers and right-handed starters Sonny Siebert and Alan Foster.

Red-Hot Warriors In Buffalo Tonight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Everybody keeps expecting them to fold, but the Golden State Warriors still mysteriously hold a 2½-game lead moving into tonight's battle at Buffalo, one of two National Basketball Association teams whose record is better than theirs.

Golden State won one of its typical last-gasp thrillers Sunday, 106-105, at Phoenix that resulted in Suns' general manager Jerry Colangelo sending films of the closing seconds to NBA headquarters. He feels an out-of-bounds call given to the Warriors also gave Golden State the game.

But that's the way things have been falling for the Warriors, now 11-4. Buffalo, 11-3, leads the Eastern Division by three full games.

Jeff Mullins, still wearing a protective device on the right hand he broke five weeks ago, played Saturday night for the first time this season and hit his first four shots. Sunday night, he was 0-for-4.

JEFF MULLINS
Not comfortable

"I still don't feel comfortable out there yet," said the veteran guard. "I need some playing time."

Tonight's game matches the NBA's two scoring leaders with Rick Barry of the Warriors at 31.5 and Buffalo's Bob McAdoo second at 30.1. Barry also ranks second in steals and is ninth in assists. Charlie Johnson of the Warriors is fourth in steals.

49ers In Good Shape For Game

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers came out of their 34-0 thumping of Chicago in good shape for Sunday's Candlestick Park confrontation with Atlanta.

Special teams member Mike Bettiga dislocated a shoulder on a kick return and will be out for the year.

But tight end Tom Mitchell, who sprained a shoulder on the first play from scrimmage against the Bears and played little after that, should be in good shape for Sunday's meeting with Atlanta.

The 49ers are also working big tackle Bill Sandifer, first round draft pick out all season following knee surgery, back into the defense. He played on pass rush situations against the Bears.

But while Spurrier has been sidelined, quarterback Tom Owen may have stolen his job. Owen, who seems to improve weekly, blasted Chicago with a 15 for 26 performance for 316 yards and two touchdowns, although he tossed three interceptions.

He tossed to Gene Washington when the Bears were rotating his way so that two men were on him. The ball was intercepted right in front of the 49er bench and the coaches told Owen to go to Terry Beasley on a streak pattern down the other side next time.

"All quarterbacks know they're going to get dumped on their fannies," said Heinrich, himself a former quarterback. "So you have to ignore it. Owen will stand in there and get the pass off."

Big Ten's Procedure For Voting

CHICAGO (UPI) — If Ohio State beats Michigan in Saturday's Big Ten title showdown, league athletic directors will meet in Chicago on Sunday to pick the Big Ten's Rose Bowl representative.

But if Michigan beats or ties Ohio State in Saturday's Big Ten title showdown, thus finishing with an undefeated record and sole possession of the championship, the athletic directors will telephone their votes to Columbus, Ohio, after the game.

That procedure was agreed upon yesterday in a joint telephone hookup among the athletic directors. They said that if Ohio State wins and the teams tie for the title, the meeting will be held Sunday morning in Chicago and the result of the vote will be announced Sunday afternoon in conjunction with a conference basketball press conference.

Mazda lowers RX-3 prices $400.

We'd like to help America Whip Inflation Now. So we've taken our lowest priced rotary-engine coupes and wagons and priced them even lower, for as long as our supply last.

And we didn't take away the extras you expect, to give you the price you want. Our RX-3s come equipped with standard features like front disc brakes, radial-ply tires, tachometer, and something no other car can offer — rotary-engine performance.

So come in and test-drive the rotary-engine Mazda RX-3. Now you can help America WIN and save $400 in the bargain. Mazda Motors of America.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Wrong Bait? Keep 'Em Alive

I took a ride with Sam Knoles the other day to that hot striped bass fishing area off Alcatraz Island. We picked up a dozen shiner perch to use as live bait, drifting the area on the incoming tide.

The place was crowded with boats speeding out toward the Gate, cutting their motors, then drifting toward the island. With all the fast boat action, the bay is rough, and one almost has to hang on so you won't be bounced over the side. We saw a few fish taken, but we didn't get a hit. Later, we got the word that these fish were partial to anchovies rather than shiners. The wrong bait; wouldn't you know it? That didn't bother Sam. He kept the bait alive and got them back into the live tank box at Loch Lomond. He made two bucks on that deal; I had paid for the bait.

AFTER THAT SAM and I tried trolling at the South Hampton Shoals, the Richmond Bridge and other spots. I ended up trolling a pet spoon, putting my rod in a holder and figuring I was just taking a ride. Somewhere along the way, I got a terrific hit, and ended up with a 15-pounder in the box.

Then, it was back to the Loch Lomond Snack Bar. Some of the crew of the boat The LoHat were there discussing Hugo Lenci's 38½-pound salmon taken off Rocky Point this week. It was Hugo's biggest fish ever, and was one of two fish taken on the all-day trip. Nobody had eaten lunch, so everybody ordered. Then I made my mistake. We flipped coins to see who would buy . . . I lost. Oh, it's not the money, but the way those rich old guys laugh. I think I got even, though, I left the girl a tip, and when Sam almost picked it up, I questioned the girl about whether or not she had ever received a tip from that gang. She confided to me that never did those fellows tip. This pretty girl's name is Kat, so I have it figured that if they don't tip a gal with a name like that, they are over the hill. I told them so! My revenge!

INCIDENTALLY, KEITH FRASER says he has been trolling the Alcatraz area and the South Hampton Shoals using four ounces of weight, a spoon and a jet tailed jig, and has been limiting his crew without any problems. He prefers the last of the outgoing tides.

I received a number of calls that the salmon fishing in Tomales Bay and White House Pool had picked up earlier this week. A few fishermen had actually taken limits. I called Kay Schneider and a few other friends and we all headed out that way Friday. None of us got a hit fishing the entire outgoing tide. It can be maddening at times.

SATURDAY, WARDEN RUSS ILD and I checked most of the fishermen at all of the fishing spots there. We checked six salmon, most of them grilse, 16 to 18-inch small male salmon. There were quite a few big fish rolling at White House Pool, but they are old fish from an early run and just won't hit anything. With so many grilse showing, all the pros think that we are going to have a run of big fish yet this year, so don't give up yet.

Duck hunting has been on the slow side from all the reports that I get. Norm Quadros put in Wednesday at Grizzly Island with a friend taking one sprig, one mallard, one teal and a ruddy. Things must be tough. We need a rain — that's for sure.

PHEASANT HUNTING on the game bird clubs has been good with the birds in top shape. Checked eight hunters with nine birds at Don Dustman's club at Ignacio. Some of the birds weighed over four pounds. Those are big pheasant.

There's not much open pheasant hunting in Marin. One hunter put in all day for just one shot and that was a miss. He was really disgusted. Game Warden George Nelson of Sonoma County checked 34 unattached hunters with 17 birds in some of the open tideland areas. He said the hunters were a beat looking group, but happy.

Browns' Sipe, Pruitt Listed Questionable

Sipe, who probably will be replaced by Mike Phipps, suffered a severe bruise of his pelvis in Sunday's 26-16 loss to Pittsburgh. Pruitt, the Browns' big-play man, jammed his lower back in the same game.

Vote Of Confidence For Read

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — The University of Oregon has given first year head football coach Don Read a vote of confidence and renewed his one-year contract.

The Ducks are 2-8 so far this year, and 0-6 in the Pacific-8 conference.

"I am pleased with the direction being given our program by Read, and the solid foundation he is building," said Oregon Athletic Director Norval Ritchey in making the announcement last night. "He has the complete confidence of our department, his team and his staff, which I am sure will result in a winning program."

Oregon closes its season Saturday when it meets Oregon State in the state's annual intrastate game at Corvallis. The Ducks have failed to score in their last three games.

Read replaced Dick Enright as head coach in January. He came to Oregon in 1972 from Portland State, where he was athletic director and head football coach.

NEW COACH — Bill (Butch) Van Breda Kolff yesterday was named coach of the New Orleans Jazz of the National Basketball Association. Van Breda Kolff replaces Scotty Robertson who was fired Sunday after compiling a 1-14 record during the club's first season of play.

Bullpen Job For Torborg

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Jeff Torborg, who caught three nohitters during his 10-year career in the major leagues, has been named bullpen coach of the Cleveland Indians.

Details of the pact, announced last night, were not revealed.

A Look At Gloomy Status Of Troubled Golden Seals

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — The rumors would have it that a few jobs may be on the line tonight when the California Golden Seals play one of the two teams in the National Hockey League with a worse record than they have.

"I'd be lying if I told you I wasn't worried," said Johnston after watching the Seals' road record slump to 0-10-1. "But all I can say is that I think I'm doing the best job that I can. But I still have a few things I have to get together."

A statement by Seals President Munson Campbell was not one which would give either Johnston or operations director Bill McCrary encouragement.

"Obviously, no one can be happy with a 10-0 loss, and we've got to examine the entire situation to find out what went wrong. This means considering every part of our problem from the director of hockey operations to the coach and right on down to the last player, to find out where we need improvement. We are in the process of doing that right now."

Johnston said "the dressing room was like a morgue after the Rangers game. I didn't think it was time to say anything to them then. The one thing that I don't want them to think is that I've lost confidence in them."

But the question may be whether Munson Campbell has lost confidence in Johnston.

Norwood Faces Knee Surgery

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons said last night forward Willie Norwood has been placed on the injured list and he will undergo surgery tomorrow for removal of bone spurs from his right knee.

At the same time, the Pistons said they signed former Detroit center Otto Moore to a one-year contract.

SANTA'S STILL ON TAKE

The commercialization of Christmas has been criticized for years, but from all indications it won't be relaxed this year — at least not in Minneapolis. One indicator was this mannequin, dressed as Santa Claus, which was carried to a window display in a Minneapolis store last week.

Trade Bill Action Is Delayed Until Kissinger Able To Testify

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee today gave in to demands by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and postponed action on the trade bill until after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger testifies Dec. 3.

The decision could threaten passage of the legislation which the administration has sought for two years.

With Congress hoping to adjourn before Christmas, Senate action after Dec. 3 could come too late to fashion a final compromise with the House-passed bill.

Congressional leaders says little major new legislation will be considered during the lame duck session that began yesterday. One bill with a possibility of passage was the mass transit legislation that the Senate takes up today.

Byrd said in a statement he wants the committee — which he said had a "firm commitment" from the secretary to testify Dec. 3 — to question Kissinger on understandings made with Russia on the emigration of Jews and on the impact of most favored nation trade treatment for the Soviet Union.

Passage of the bill has been blocked by an amendment by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., that would deny Russia most favored nation treatment unless it allows free emigration of Jews. Jackson recently announced an agreement had been reached with the Russians to remove the barrier against passage of the bill.

President Ford asked for action this year on a list of legislation, including mass transit, which he sent to Congress on its first day back from a month-long election recess.

Ford put confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president at the top of his list. The Senate is expected to vote on it this year, but the House may let it go over to the new 94th Congress.

The $11.8 billion, six-year mass transit aid bill in the Senate is a holdover from the pre-election session and may get final action this year.

But new legislation such as Ford's proposed 5 per cent tax surcharge and a scaled down tax reform bill doing away with the oil depletion allowance, due out of the House Ways and Means committee, is expected to die with the old 93rd Congress at noon on Jan. 3, 1975.

The House yesterday waded through a host of minor bills, including measures permitting girls to join the Naval Academy and Little League Baseball, while the Senate resumed work on a supplemental appropriation measure.

Ford warned in his message yesterday that swollen money bills like the $8.6 billion supplemental measures, which includes $200,000 for former President Nixon's expenses, and a $33.4 billion appropriation for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare measure, awaiting final action, would be vetoed.

Ford reiterated his stand that five measures he returned unsigned while Congress was in recess constituted "pocket vetoes" that could not be overriden.

The House decided yesterday, however, to test Ford's stand and set tomorrow for an override vote on one of the five, a bill authorizing vocational rehabilitation funds.

Ban Lifted On Mussels And Clams

State and local health departments yesterday lifted their annual ban against eating mussels and clams from coastal waters.

Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, Marin County health officer, warned, however, that even though the annual summertime quarantine because of "red tide" poisoning has been lifted, shellfish still should not be collected in any area polluted by sewage.

This includes all of Bolinas Lagoon, and certain other Marin coastal areas. Dr. Albrecht said signs had been posted in the danger areas, but that she is unsure whether any of the signs may have been removed by vandals.

During summer months, a toxic microscopic organism that swarms in the water to cause "red tides" accumulates in clams and mussels, but the quarantine is lifted each fall as the organism dies out.

New Ambulances Expected Soon

The Novato Fire District expects its three new ambulances to be delivered by Dec. 15, according to Fire Chief Jack W. Kidder.

The ambulances are expected to be in operation Jan. 1, he told the district board last night.

Directors approved specifications for a new fire truck with bids to be opened Jan. 6 and declared a 1947 truck and a 1952 wagon as surplus to be offered for sale.

Kissinger Warns Of Ford's 'Other' Plans For Energy

TOKYO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger warned today that President Ford may use "other means" to cut energy consumption in the United States if his pleas for voluntary conservation go unheeded.

"The President is committed to achieving restraints (in energy consumption) over the next 10 years," Kissinger told a news conference. "He will do it either through voluntary or other means."

Kissinger was not specific about the "other means," but he apparently meant mandatory government controls. Ford said in an interview released Sunday he could impose such controls as mandatory fuel allocations without congressional action.

The Secretary of State, who will fly to Peking Sunday when Ford wraps up his Far East trip in Vladiotok, has said he will return to brief Japanese leaders on his talks with Chinese officials.

Kissinger said Ford already had briefed Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka on subjects he planned to discuss in Vladivostok.

Without going into detail, Kissinger also said Ford had expressed to Tanaka his understanding of the "special sensitivity of Japan with respect to nuclear weapons." There have been charges by Japanese leftists that the United States has been taking nuclear weapons into Japan.

Kissinger said there had been "discussion of the nuclear problem, and it was agreed that the nuclear issues would be handled between Japan and the U.S. within the framework of the mutual security treaty."

Later in the day Kissinger called on former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, recent winner of the Nobel Peace Prize. Sato told newsmen after the meeting Kissinger tried "indirectly" to sound him out on Japan's political situation.

Sato is a long-time associate of former Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda, who is trying to unite leaders of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP) to oust Tanaka from office.

Kissinger also planned to meet with two of Tanaka's closest allies, Finance Minister Masayoshi Ohira and Minister of International Trade and Industry Yasuhiro Nakasone.

Last week Kissinger unveiled a new American proposal for major oil consuming nations to cut energy use across the board by 10 per cent.

Ford explained the international conservation proposal today to Tanaka. Although initial Japanese reactions to the idea have been cool, Kissinger later told reporters that Ford had been given a "sympathetic" hearing.

Many Japanese officials see the international 10 per cent reduction plan as an effort to set up a confrontation between oil consuming countries and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). Japan, which depends on Mideast suppliers for 80 per cent of its oil, has tried to avoid such a confrontation.

Woman Jailed For Role In Con's Escape

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Mrs. Joan Coberly was sentenced to three years in prison yesterday for her part in the escape of Oregon State Penitentiary inmate Carl Bowles May 17.

Mrs. Coberly, 24, Monrovia, had pleaded guilty July 30 to a charge of hindering prosecution.

The sentence imposed by Marion County Circuit Court Judge Jena Schlegel was recommended by District Attorney Gary Gortmaker who reported Mrs. Coberly had cooperated with federal and state authorities in the investigation of the Bowles case and had not been present during any of the violence committed by Bowles.

Bowles escaped while on a social pass to visit Mrs. Coberly. He was later arrested in Idaho, where he is now serving a 75-year term for kidnaping. He is also accused of the kidnaping and murder of Earl and Viola Hunter, Eugene, Ore.

Father Accused Of Burning Home

PLEASANT HILL (UPI) — A 37-year-old father of two has been jailed on suspicion of torching his $60,000 home following a weekend quarrel with his wife.

Police detective Terry Simpson said Anthony Geisler was arrested in a church and booked for investigation of arson after his $60,000, four-bedroom home burned to the ground.

The fire, which investigators said was started with flammable liquid, destroyed the house.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

OTC Company In Fertile Field

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. I recently bought 200 shares of First Mississippi (OTC). Was this a good move? — L.R.

A. Judging from both the stock's technical action and the fundamentals of the issue, I would say "Yes". Largely owing to a huge acquisition in 1973, first Mississippi is now prominent in producing nitrogen fertilizers and in operating retail farm centers. Excluding nonrecurring items, diluted net per share was $7.10 in the June, 1974, year vs. $1.21 the year before. Net was $2.74 for the September quarter, which is seasonally the lowest period of the fertilizer year. Unprecedented demand and skyrocketing prices may propel fiscal 1975 earnings to $15.

The company has recently announced a 200 per cent stock dividend payable in January, with 6 cents a share to be paid quarterly on the new capitalization. Currently, the dividend is 8 cents quarterly. First Mississippi has also announced that a new ammonia plant, in which it will have a 25 per cent interest, will be built in Louisiana for completion in 1977. With the supply/demand outlook for fertilizers bright for several years to come, First Mississippi is an interesting speculation.

Q. Please advise me how to invest $5,000. Someone suggested Treasury Notes; is that too complicated for a 60-year-old widow? — C.G.

A. In the resale market the yield on Treasury Notes, which have maturities of up to seven years, is less than 8 per cent to maturity and below 7 per cent in current income. These may be purchased on offering directly from any Federal Reserve Bank or branch office. A form and instructions for submitting a non-competitive tender offer for either Treasury Bonds or Notes is obtainable from these banks. The entire transaction may be completed by mail. However, it is up to you to watch the financial pages of your newspaper for announcements on upcoming offerings.

Perhaps it would be less confusing for you to open a brokerage account and have your account executive handle all the details. The fee is nominal. For a somewhat higher return, I favor Tennessee Valley Authority 7.35s of 1997 Series C. Now trading at $860 per $1,000 face amount, the bond yields 8.5 per cent currently and about 9 per cent to maturity. Interest on these AAA-rated bonds is exempt from state and local taxes.

(Mr. Sargent cannot answer all mail personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.)

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $4.255 cents per fine ounce, down 25.0 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $4.255, down 25.0 cents and fabricated silver at $4.361, down 22.6 cents.

Stocks Drop As Worries Pile Higher

The ripple effects of the nationwide coal strike — entering its second week — and layoffs in the automobile industry disturbed many investors. Members of the United Mine Workers Bargaining Council met in Washington to determine whether to approve a tentative new contract for membership approval. It was obvious the strike would last longer than anticipated and would seriously disrupt the nation's already slowing economy.

Rails, oil, oil-related and chemical issues were weaker. Coals rebounded somewhat, Kennecott ex-dividend, the owner of Peabody Coal, rose 1½.

LAZY WATER SKIIER

Ken Jones appeared tired of the conventional method of water skiing yesterday when he appeared off Mission's Bay's Santa Clara Point in San Diego on a water chair. It is mounted on a disk for stability and lazy marine mobility.

Water Crisis Seen In A-Plants

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — If Californians don't find a way to put nuclear power plants on the ocean shore, despite objections from environmentalists, reactors in the desert will drink up the water that southern cities need, a water agency official said yesterday.

He suggested setting aside a "nuclear park" on the coast where electricity-generating reactors can be built and cooled by ocean water, to ease fears that the shoreline will be marred by a chain of reactors all along the coast.

The current thinking, forcing the reactors back into the desert, aggravates the area's water supply problem, said David Kennedy, assistant general manager of the Metropolitan Water District, the largest water use agency in Southern California.

"Diverting Colorado River water for power plant cooling is a questionable use of the water needed by our cities," Kennedy said.

The coastal planning commissions thus hold the key to the future water supplies of California cities, he argued, because if they insist on barring nuclear power plants from the coast, by the year 1990 nuclear plants in the desert will require a "staggering" 300,000 acre feet of water a year — more than half the available supply from the river.

The water district in turn must meet the demands of the utility groups because of the need for electrical power in the cities, he said.

Metropolitan, which supplies water to more than 100 California cities, is already committed to supplying 100,000 acre feet of water a year for desert nuclear power plants in the 1980s, he said.

Gilbert Stamm, Interior Department commissioner of reclamation, warned the delegates there could be a water shortage by the year 2000, because of the water needed by the coal mining and other energy-producing operations in the upper basin.

"Water is the key to the conversion and use of our vast fossil fuel reserves in the west," Stamm said.

"It is estimated that about 870,000 acre feet of water will be needed annually in the upper basin by the year 2000 to meet the requirements of about 30 major energy development projects which are in various stages of operation, construction or planning."

With the addition of increased demands by municipal, agricultural, environmental and industrial users "these competing uses in the Colorado River basin could result in significant water shortages by the year 2000," he said.

Wyoming Gov. Stan Hathaway told the conference that Americans are spending too much time studying the problems of energy and food needs, and not doing enough about them.

Mexican Drug Gang Is Linked To Famed 'French Connection'

TIJUANA, Mexico (UPI) — Mexican and American narcotics agents who broke "the Mexican connection" gang found not only a global, multimillion-dollar drug empire, but a family tree with familiar roots —the "French connection" ring.

Investigators of both nations said the arrest of a key fourth person in the gang, a woman, led them to the ring's records, filled with the identities of narcotics dealers throughout the world and huge financial transactions.

They appeared to confirm an earlier suspicion that the Mexican operation grew out of the "French connection."

The ring —run for more than three years from inside the state penitentiary in this border city —was shipping $3 million a month worth of drugs to the United States, investigators said.

The break came with the arrest last Friday of Patricia Torres de Hernandez, wife of Juan Hernandez, one of those arrested in the prison. Imprisoned with him are his brother Roberto, and Robert's wife, Helen Valderain de Hernandez — who investigators said was the actual head of the ring.

Mrs. Torres de Hernandez was arrested in a Tijuana hotel last Friday delivering a kilo (2.2 pounds) of heroin to a customer from the midwestern United States, said Ramon Herrera Esponda, special agent of the Mexican federal attorney general's office.

Mexican officials have been tracking down the ring in cooperation with the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

Investigators began to suspect some months ago that the "Mexican connection" ring not only moved into the markets left vacant by the breakup of the "French connection," but that the two gangs were related and may have done business with each other.

The story of the detective work in breaking up the "French connection" was turned into a best selling book and popular movie.

The thousands of pages of records seized with Mrs. Hernandez showed that the Mexican gang began 15 years ago as a "sub-wholesaler" of the French-Corsican ring, and gradually grew in strength and profitability until it could replace the French ring when it was broken up.

The documents included a list of aliases for Auguste Riccord, the head of the French connection ring, who is now serving a 20-year prison term in the United States following years of intense international police work and diplomatic efforts. The list was accompanied by telephone numbers of Riccord's hideouts in Latin America when he was a fugitive, investigators said.

White heroin —processed in laboratories in Marseille that gang its name —was dyed brown to make it look like Mexican heroin and disguise the link between the two gangs, investigators said.

The documents included the names, addresses, telephone numbers and aliases of 31 narcotics wholesalers in the United States that did business with the ring, agents said.
